FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

DELAMATER may be in the lead in the governorship race, but when the convention comes off we'll wager he will not "get there by a long shot."

THE Pittsburg Times will at once begin the erection of a $500,000 building to accommodate its business, and promises to have one of the finest establishments anywhere. The Times is among the brightest and most enterprising of newspapers, and has earned all the luxury with which it can surround itself.

IT is reported that the provisional government of Brazil intends to promulgate a new constitution without resorting to the trifling formality of submitting it to the people. We have always believed the republic of Brazil to be a fraud of the first magnitude, and that nothing in the way of tyranny is beyond the inclination of the military conspiracy in control.

THE explosion by which eight men have lost their lives in South Wilkes-Barre attracts public attention and demands public sympathy. Yet there are more men killed every year, singly and by twos and threes, through preventable accidents than by all the explosions which appal the imagination in five years, yet legislation against these minor accidents cannot be scured.

JUDGE SADLER, of Cumberland county, proposes to solve the tramp question in his district by putting the vagrants to work at breaking limestone, under the supervision of the Sheriff. This plan may work well as a local treatment, but unless it is made general the result of its application will probably be fewer tramps in Cumberland county and more in the counties adjoining.

THE Senate has ended a ridiculous contest with a ridiculous collapse, and the utter failure of the inquiry into the way in which tha secrets of executive sessions leak brings perceptibly nearer the day in which the secrecy of these sessions will be abolished. They are the last stronghold of the spoils system, and when they are gone corrupt and corrupting bargains over the confirmation of appointments will be less easy than now.

THERE is considerable activity in the democratic camp in this state, notwithstanding the heavy republican majority and the rivalry for the empty honor of the gubernatorial nomination. The candidates are Hon William A Wallace, of Clearfield, who would probably poll the democratic vote, Chauncey F Black, of York, who would run behind his ticket, and Ex Governor Robert E Pattison, who is hated by the pol icians but stands well with the people. The latter would make much the strongest candidate for which reason his nomination is improbable.

That Southern Pig Iron.

The raw iron whose departure from Sheffield, Alabama, was celebrated nearly two weeks ago, will probably be here next week. The interest created by this shipment is considerably greatest at points distant from Pittsburg,—indeed very little is thought about it here. That amount of iron, were it to be used, would supply Pittsburg a few hours only. The iron is of a kind that is not much used in Pittsburg, it not being up to the standard that enters extensively into Pittsburg consumption. Pittsburg consumes a great deal of raw iron. If the present shipment supplies a want there is no reason why other shipments should not follow in case the shippers have it to sell at satisfactory rates. There exists no prejudice that will prevent transactions of this kind on the merits of the article. Whether or not other shipments will follow will settle that question, and prove how much reason there has been for the loud proclamations that have been made of Southern raw iron selling in the Pittsburg market "quite largely," or otherwise. If the Southern iron is up to the requirements of this market, and if there is any object in buying it, the shippers may be sure of their money for considerable quantities. A little experience will tell.

THAT SPRING MILLS BRIDGE.

In the Watchman of last week, under the heading of "Can it be possible," appeared the following;

In the bridge account as furnished by the Commissioners in their annual statement, will be found the following item;

"Spring Mills bridge," S C Decker, putting on new plank	$62 72

Now the allegation is made that this "S. C. Decker" is none other than a representative of John D. Decker, one of the County Commissioners, and in this instance was used as a blind to cover up a transaction that robbed the county of just $38.72 in the matter of planking the bridge above named. Ira Barger, of Spring Mills, sawed and furnished the plank for this job, for which his charge was $21.00. He and his hired man put them on the bridge in one day for which they made the additional charge of $3.00, making a total for sawing, furnishing and putting the plank in their place, of $24.00, a job for which the county is compelled to pay to a representative of the Commissioner who had the work in charge, the sum of $62,72.

If these facts are true, and we have them from a source that we consider entirely reliable, is it to be wondered at that the county is getting into debt, and that an increase of taxation is staring everybody in the face as a result of the management of the present board of County Commissioners?

If we are wrong in this case our columns are open to Commissioner Decker to set the matter right.

The above is one of two things, a plain misstatement of facts, either ignorantly or intentionally, or else it is a pure, unadulturated lie, published for the purpose of making political capital in the misleading of the readers of the paper by giving them information which is no information at all but simply guess work at the supposed truth. We suppose the Watchman got its information from the same source that the Centre Reporter did, which paper published a piece similar in tone and character and the exact counterpart so far as names and figures are concerned. Now if the Watchman, which is right here in Bellefonte, had only taken the trouble to go to the Commissioner's office it could have found out just the true state of affairs about that bridge.

There is on file there the following bill for lumber furnished for the bridge:

Bellefonte; Pa., Nov 26, 1889

Commissioners of Centre County:

To Seward C Decker, Dr.,

For 2737 feet of Oak Plank for bridge across Sirking Creek at Spring Mills creek, at Spring Mills, at $21 per M, delivered	$57 47
To three men pitting on plank one day, at $1 50 each	4 50
Twenty five pounds of spikes at 3 cents per lb., as per bill of J D Long	75
Total Amount	$62 72

Then further on down in the same column on the statement we find the following entry:

By Cash for old plank of Spring Mills bridge sold to J D Long	$4 00

So that the net cost of the building of the bridge over Sinking Creek at Spring Mills was but $58.72.

But now we will go into figures. The bridge in question is 17 feet wide and 66 feet long; multiply the two and you have 1122 square feet to cover. Plank are always sold board measure, as every man who knows anything at all will not dispute, The plank furnished were 2½ inches thick; multiply 1122 by 2½ and you have 2805 feet—68 feet more than the county was charged with, Multiply the number of feet—2737 as per bill rendered—with the price—$21 per thousand, delivered—and any mathematician under the heavens cannot make it anything else but $57.47.

The above is not an assertion but an indisputable fact, and the papers can be seen by anyone who desires to see them. Furthermore, the price charged for the lumber was most reasonable. Oak lumber is selling at either of the mills in Bellefonte at $20 per M., and not delivered, and the price charged for the above lumber was only $21 delivered.

The assertion that it only required two men one day to lay the bridge is another lie. It took three men, and Ira Barger was not one of them, either. And just here we will say that Ira Barger did not furnish the lumber as the Watchman and Center Reporter states. The only thing Ira Barger had to do with that bridge was to send his hired man, James Caldron, who is a carpenter, to assist in putting down the plank and beams. The other two men who assisted that day were Thomas Kenley and Seward Decker, and either of the above three men can be seen regarding the truth of the above.

As to the last charge in the bill rendered the county, that of 75 cents for 25 lbs of spikes, there seems to be no controversey.

Now, my dear brethren, we have stated incontrovertible facts; facts that can be substantiated in black and white, and now that you have the truth about the Spring Mills bridge, will you have the candid honor to come out this week and acknowledge to your readers that you were mistaken—just call it mistaken, nothing more—and that the bridge bill is all O. K There is honor, you know, even among thieves and liars.

Now just one word to the tax payers: If there is anything in the county statement you can't understand go to some one who will give you a correct explanation and ask for it, and you will go away satisfied as to the correctness of it, but don't depend on the democratic papers of Centre county for to explain anything, for they are now determined to resort the most desperate straits possible for them to conceive in order to assist them in next fall's campaign, but it will avail them nothing for "They can't do it, you know."

No Lottery in North Dakota.

The reports from North Dakota are not encouraging to those who hoped that the force of public opinion had compelled the abandonment of the infamous lottery bill.

It seems that the scheme was scotched and not killed, and that the effort is being made to purchase enough support for the bill to override any veto. The action of the Legislature during the past few days is not at all satisfactory. There is a significant delay in passing the seed grain bill, and it is believed that it is for the purpose of compelling the impoverished farmers to consent to the passage of the lottery bill or of going without the help they need. The attempt, also, to punish the newspapers that criticised the Legislature for considering this gambling measure, by forcing them to establish publication agencies in the States, does not look well. The facts are just here: The Republican party has a large majority in both branches of the North Dakota Legislature, and it will be justly held responsible if this lottery bill becomes a law.

The party press from one end of the Union to the other should speak in emphatic tones on the proposal to smirch the Republican record with this infamous measure. Dakota should be made to understand that there must be no collision with gamblers. Honest poverty is honorable, but prosperity gained by such schemes as the lottery company as now dangling before the eyes of North Dakota Legislature, will bring only shame and dishonor to a State.

WE THINK IT AS ABSURD AS UNTRUE.

According to a special from Harrisburg to the Pittsburg Post Senator Quay has an eye on the Gubernatorial candidacy and intends providing for Delamater and Hastings in some other manner than allowing them to come out as candidates. Previous to his departure from Washington for Florida he asserted positively that he was not pledged to any particular candidate and whenever he referred to the coming Republican convention he would say: 'I will have the delegates from such a county," placing particular emphasis on the word "I." It is said in Harrisburg that Quay will be the nominee for Governor, will resign from the United States Senate make Mayor Fitler, of Philadelphia, his successor, put Delamater on the ticket for Lieutenrnt-Governor, and make General Hastings his Secretary of State. Attention is called to the remarkable fact that Quay has never yet served out a term in any office to which he was elected or appointed. The boss has the thing fixed up all cut and dry, and according to this program Hastings and Delamater are merely secondary considerations, so far as the Governorship of Pennsylvania is concerned. What do the Republicans think of this layout? Don't all speak at once, gentlemen; one at a time.

Altoona Times.

A Big Year in Politics.

This will be a big year in politics. There will be a Governor to elect, a lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, auditor general, congressman, state senator, two members of the legislature, sheriff, two commissioners, recorder, register and treasurer, a ticket with candidates for twelve different offices. Republicans, just think of it. Never was there a better time to lick the democrats out of their boots than just the coming fall, for if the republican party so wills it, they can elect every man.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, March 10, 1890.

The President was greatly surprised, not to say shocked, at the latest charge of Editor Frank Hatton against Messrs. Roosevelt and Thompson, the two Civil Service Commissioners appointed by Mr. Harrison. Mr. Hatton charges that the communications signed by Mr. W D Foulke, of Indiana, which were published last week in the New York Times and in the St. Louis Republic, and which charged the President and his cabinet with having entered into a conspiracy to break down the civil service reform system and that the Congressional investigation was the result of that conspiracy, were inspired by Messrs. Roosevelt and Thompson, if not actually prepared by them. Both of those gentlemen deny the charge, but the fact that Mr. Foulke, who has been here for several weeks has been a good deal in their company makes the thing look very bad. This added to the result of the investigation is enough to disgust the President with the whole business.

A big Chicago delegation is here helping the House committee to fix up the bill which will be reported to the House and passed thisweek. The Chicago people say they will not ask to have the fair postponed until 1893, but that they would not object to such a postponement believing that it would result in making the fair a greater success. There are still lots of people here who do not believe any fair will be held.

The majority of the Senate Committee on Elections have decided to report in favor of the republican Senatorial contestants from Montana. This means practically that the republicans will be seated.

It is expected that the bills for the admission of Wyoming and Idaho will be taken up by the House this week. The democrats will offer as a substitute for the Idaho bill an omnibus bill including New Mexico Arizona and Idaho.

The Senate committee which has been trying so hard to find out how the proceedings of secret sessions get out have at last got on the right track by summoning Senators to testify before it.

The House committee on Elections will send a sub-committee of five members to Arkansas to investigate the killing of Col. Clayton, and to determine whether he or Mr. Breckenridge, who now holds the seat, was elected to the House from the Second Arkansas district.

The district tax bill, which has already passed the Senate, has been favorably reported to the House. There is no doubt of its passing.

Postal telegraphy has taken up a good deal of the time of the Congressional committees on post offices of late, and everybody that has been heard, except the representatives of the Western Union telegraph company, favor the idea of a postal telegraph system, some of them supporting the Postmaster General's bill, which provides for leasing wires, and others Representative Wade's bill which provides for the Government's erecting the wires. It seems pretty certain that the time is not far distant when a postal telegraph system will be in operation in this country.

There have been altogether four out of the seventeen contested election cases decided by the House. Three of the republican contestants have been seated and one case decided in favor of the democratic sitting member. The election committee is working hard to get the other cases ready to report, but as each case averages about one thousand printed pages of testimony it is necessarily very slow work.

Senator Plumbs bill to declare forfeited the lands granted to aid in the construction of railroads has been favorably reported to the Senate.

That some sort of a silver bill be passed by the present Congress is certain, but whether it will be the bill reported by the Senate Finance Committee or Secretary Windom's bill is a matter of doubt, although Mr. Windom's bill is ahead so far, but comparatively few members have as yet committed themselves.

Secretary Windom has by the purchase of bonds reduced the available surplus of the Treasury to $28,000,000. He does not propose to reduce it below $20,000,000.

The labor organizations are again hammering away at the House committee on Labor, trying to obtain legislation to enforce the eight-hour law on all Government work.

Senator Quay was expected here this week but letters received from him say that he has decided to remain in Florida several weeks longer. As soon as he returns it is expected that the Republican Congressional committee will be organized for the fall campaign.

Senator Cullom has introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 for the erection in this city of a monument to John Ericson, the inventor of the Monitor.

HOW THE SECRETS GET OUT.

It should surprise no one did the correspondents in Washington who stand charged as a body with printing executive session secrets disclose the source of their information. Such information almost necessarily comes from Senators themselves, and were the Senate really intent on having the truth it would proceed to put members of that body on the stand, and this it did yesterday, but of course no Senator confessed anything, Senators are so like other men! In the pursuit of knowledge in a manner that implies a more or less serious offence on the part of the correspondents and injured innocence on the part of the Senators, the Senate has approached the danger line; for such a course persisted in would lead to a disclosure which would fall heavily on Senators, and on them alone.

It is said that some women, once possessed of a secret, cannot rest until they have told it. The saying may slander the women, but it is entirely true that it has ever been the fact as to members of the senate,—not all, it is probable, but certain ones for a certainty. We dare say that correspondents in Washington could name Senators in numbers who can be depended on for any information that is sought for. In striking contrast with the action of Senators on whom rests the official obligation of secrecy, correspondents have scrupulously observed faith with their Senatorial informants. Not imprisonment even could wrench from them the source of their information. It is this fact that has contributed very largely to the success of labors at obtaining the secrets of the executive sessions This single fact holds true, to-wit: rarely has the secrets of executive session been disclosed that did not come directly or indirectly, and, as a rule, designedly, from a Senator. Another is that never has a Senator been betrayed. Any one can see that the danger lies immediately in the track of pushing by Senators the question, who divulged recent executive session secrets, when certain of the pushers are Senators who gave out the news. We infer from the disposition manifested by the Senate that this has dawned upon that body. This is not a matter in which the public at large is presumed to take a deep interest, yet it is well to have it understood.

THE Treasury Department is of the opinion that American vessels can hire Chinamen in foreign ports but cannot land them. This decision gives the American sailor the unfortunate distinction of being the only American workman unprotected from cheap Chinese labor. It gives the Celestials a chance to come into direct competition with American labor though he may not set foot on American soil. Parsimonious vessel owners will make it a point to ship as many Chinamen as can do their work, as the Chinese hire for much less. The decision will be of much greater consequence in the near future with the revival of the American merchant marine to its old position of importance than it is now. It is antagonistic to the spirit of the Chinese Exclusion act though perhaps according to the letter. It will tend to cheapen and degrade American marine labor and indirectly other labor.

WE haven't much respect for any republican who attempts to further the interest of his favorite candidate for governor by down-right lying about the other candidates and their friends, and we don't believe the republicans of Blair county have.

POPULAR sentiment is simply rushing for General Hastings for the next nominee for governor, and it is an acknowledged fact that even political leaders dare not go too far against popular sentiment. It would be dangerous.

THAT cry from McKean county is the sounding of Delamater's dearh knell. Montgomery has taken up the tune and we know of a dozen more counties that are getting their horns ready to blow.

Widows Most Popular.

But why is it that the widow is more popular than the maid? I have asked the question over and over and here are some of the replies: That a pretty figure looks prettier in black; that the widow is not as conservative as the maid; that she has more 'go;' that she is always ready to help out a bashful swain; that she doesn't generally reside under the parental roof where the clock is wont to be wound up at sharp 10; that she very often has life insurance; that a man need not be so good-looking to win a widow, neither has he to placate that arch-fiend the little brother; that she has become used to vile tobacco and inferior cigars. that she assumes an air of helplessness, which, by way of contrast, makes a man appear strong and great, and men love greatness even when it is thrust upon them, that, knowing the wiles she employed to capture one man, she tries them again and again succeeds (this was the reason given by an old bachelor); and lend me your ears, girls, as this is probably the true reason, she has, or is supposed to have, learned to sew on buttons.

MRS. HARRISONS DAILY LIFE.

The routine of the day begins early at the Executive Mansion, says A. J. Halford, in an interesting article on "Mrs. Harrison's Life in the White House" in the March Ladies Home Journal. Breakfast is served promptly at half past 8 o'clock in the family dining room on the north side of the house, adjoining the conservatory. This is followed by prayers, either the President or Dr. Scott conducting devotions. The family then separate for the day; the President proceeding directly to his room. Mrs. Harrison and the ladies retire to the "living room" of the house, which is not a room at all. It is the north end of main hall, on the second floor, separated from the office or public portion of the floor by a rather severe, not to say forbiding black walnut partition, half the heights of the walls. Mrs. Harrison finds here her mail, which is attended to with promptness and regularity. So far as the work of answering letters can be delegated, it is given over to Mrs. Sanger, the stenographer. But a large portion of her mail Mrs. Harrison answers herself. Many of the letters can be answered by means of a form that has been composed for the purpose.

The consideration of her mail over, Mrs. Harrison receives the superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, at present Co Oswald M Ernrst of the Engineer Corps, who is charged with the duty of disbursing the appropriation made for the maintenance of the Executive Mansion. With him Mrs. Harrison discusses the needs of the house and her desires, which must be made to conform to the amount of the funds on hand. Many and long are these conferences, and oftentimes they result in a shifting about and repairing of the furniture and fixtures that would astonish some persons who imagine that the life of the lady of the White House is without care and a continual state of bliss.

After having dismissed Col. Ernst, she devotes herself to the domestic branch of the establishment in conference with the housekeeper. The menu for the day is arranged during this conference, and in consultation with the steward Mrs. Harrison maintains an intelligent supervision over the kitchen, but the stories current in some circles, representing her as devoting much of her time to actual participation in the work of the department, are exaggerations. Although a good cook, she does not find it necessary or desirable to usurp the functions of that individual in the White House. And so as to the marketing. Having arranged in a general way for the provision of the day, it is left to the proper person to see that it is procured. Lunch is served at 1.30, but frequently the president is detained by callers, office-seekers, or cabinet meetings, and he does not sit down sometimes until an hour later. It is rarely the case that some one is not invited to join in this meal, in a wholly informal manner—a cabinet officer with whom the President may thus continue conference, or some friend who is asked to extend his stay over the hour for lunch.

In the afternoon, for an hour or thereabouts, Mrs. Harrison receives friends, who come by appointment, and who usually have some relative or visitor to present. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Harrison usually takes a drive, often with the President, and when not accompanying him she takes Mrs. McKee and the babies, or some friend who may be in the house. The variations from this programme will include lessons in china painting, in which art Mrs. Harrison displays rare talent and skill.

Dinner is served at 6.30 o'clock, and as was the case at lunch almost always the family is joined by some friend. President and Mrs. Harrison are plain livers, preferring the dishes of an old Kentucky "aunty" to the more elaborate menu arranged by a French chef.

In the evenings out of the "season," the White House is a very quiet place. President Harrison rarely has an opportunity of spending any time with his family, except at meals, and after dinner he is usually to be found at his desk again. If Mrs. Harrison is free from any social duty, she utilizes the evening hours by reading. Being fond of a good theatrical or operatic performance she occasionally graces one of the theatres with her presence, accompanied by two or three friends. The President has little taste for this class of amusement, especially opera, so is seldom seen at these places. He is fond of meeting friends in a quiet way, and when Mrs. Harrison is entertaining callers in the evening, he comes down from his room whenever business permits him to do so, and mingles with them in a delightfully informal way.

On the Bridge at Midnight.

I stood on the bridge at midnight, too drunk for any fun; two moons rose over the city where there ought to have been but one. I could see their bright reflections, in the windows near to me, and I experienced a feeling of wonder and curiosity. If only one had been there I would have been in doubt, but what two moons were doing there I could not well make out. The cars were slowly passing and I heard their endless roll, as I stood in the wavering shadows to hide from the night patrol. How often, oh, how often, in the days of old lang syne, I had crossed the bridge at midnight and got left every time. But now I was hot and restless, and my mind was full of care, and the walk that day before me was more than I could bear. I had no latch key with me, and locked would be the door, and I'd have to sit in the doorway in agony and fear, till a voice said from the window, "Did the lodge hold late, my dear?' And as I stood there dreaming, and watching the swift cars glide, till a cop came and took me where the tramp and criminal abide. And forever and forever, as long as the beer keg flows: as long as my heart is foolish and so week as to escape its woes, the moon and its double reflection and its shadow shall appear to awaken the nameless horrors that I found in that lock-up-drear.—Ex

HIGHER THAN RAILROAD ORDERS.

'No, we don't bounce the tramps who ride on the bumpers of our freight trains,' said a freight conductor who has a run to the West. 'I presume that we carry an average of a dozen each trip, but if they remain between the cars we pretend not to see them.'

'But it is against orders,' was urged.

'Oh, yes, but there is a higher power than general orders, even for railroad men. Five or six years ago I used to be hard on the railroad tramp. I'd have the train looked over at every stop, and if we caught a chap he got handled pretty lively. Nowadays I throw out a hint to the brakemen to shut both eyes, and if the tramp don't presume too much on my good nature no one will disturb him.'

'What happened to change your mind?'

"Oh, a little incident of no interest to the public, but a great deal to me. I was married in December three years ago. On the third night I got an order to run out with an extra. There was a cold rain, which froze as it fell, and one of my crew got hurt at our very first stop. This left us short-handed, and as we could not supply his place I had to act for him. We were back in the mountains, running strong to make time, when the engineer whistled brakes for a grade. I climbed out of the caboose with the brakesmen, and had set two brakes and was after the third, when a lurch of the cars threw me down, and I fell between two of them. I had just one glimpse of the red-cheeked bride at home, just one swift thought of her in widow's weeds and her heart breaking, when a hand grabbed me. I was going down head first, but the strong clutch turned me over and my feet struck the bumpers. I'd have gone then, only some one put my hands on the ladder, flung his arms around me from behind to hold me there and said:

'You are all right, old man. Your nerve will come back pretty soon"

'And it was a tramp, eh?'

'It was, and he held me there until the train reached its stop and then helped me down, for the sudden fright had taken all my strength and nerve away. But for him I should have been ground up under the wheel. This is the reason I keep a soft spot in my heart for the genus tramp, and why, when I sometimes walk the length of every train and find every bumper occupied, I look skyward and pretend not to see as much as an old fur cap.'

The barn on the property of Mrs. Dr. Crawford, near McCoysville, Juniata county, was destroyed by an incendiary fire one night last week. Two sheep, one lamb, four hogs, 150 bushels of wheat, 200 bushels oats, fifty bushels rye, 800 bushels corn in ear, fifty tons hay, lot straw, all the farming implements, machinery and horse gears perished in the seathing flames. One good horse was so severely burned that his life is despaired of. The loss to Mrs. Crawford will be no less than $3,000. There was an insurance of $1,200 on the barn and $400 on contents.

Alfrek Corning Clark withdraws His Snbscription from the Worlds Fair.

We find the following in the N. Y. Tribune of 22nd Feby.

"Sir: The Sun of to-day in its report of the Worlds Fair debate says:

"Mr. Cummings of N. York said that the Fair was to commemorate the greatest event since the birth of our Saviour."

In what light my Fellow Citizens who have given their names to the Guarantee Fund may regard this utterance I do not know. Personally I desire to have nothing to do with a scheme advocated in such words, and at the risk of misconstruction as to loyalty to my native City, must recall the promise formerly made to further the plan of holding the Fair here.

ALFRED CORNING CLARK,
25 West 23rd., St.

Feb. 21st, 1890.

As one of Alfred Corning Clark's fellow citizens we thank Mr. Cumming for reminding us that the discovery of America was without exception "the greatest event since the birth of our Saviour." It has had more influence on the progress of civilization than any other event in the World's history.

What Alfred Corning Clark can see to find fault with Mr. Cumming's reminder of this great and eventful discovery we cannot see unless Alfred Corning thinks it was irreligous to even allude to the other great event in the World's history—the birth of Christ.

Almost the only thing that marred this great and eventful discovery was the dogmatism and improper use of religion to keep the people ignorant and uncivilized, Alfred Corning's ignorance and blinded subservience to dogmas of a fancied religion which would prevent Mr. Cummings from using the name of our Saviour is we think, in these days of enlightenment, held by himself alone.

Mr. Cummings mentions two great events in the worlds progress—the birth of Christ and the discovery of America; t is a pity he so offended Alfred Corning Clark's vanity when he omitted to mention the discovery of Singer's Sewing Machine.

But Alfred Corning Clark did not know enough to have any part in any discoveries of that machine, he has never in all his life earned a dollar. He even does not know enough to take care of what came to him by inheritance, but hires some one to do that and to oversee his wife and children when he goes abroad.

There are few who have such impediments to keep them from learning either history or fulfillment of promises. We learned from newspaper reports that but little could be expected from his daily home associations as his wife was the daughter of an ignorant pack peddler and cab driver. But little could be hoped from such association for Mr. Alfred Corning Clark's mental or humanitarian improvements.

Who has ever seen Mr. Clark's name heading any charity; a furolous excuse is sufficient for him to withdraw his promise.

Mr. Cummings remark was that of one enlightened individual only, it gave no just excuse for the withdrawal of a promise given to others.

Mr. Cumming's desire to commemorate "the greatest event" will not be retarded by Alfred Corning's desire to repocket his unwilling gift.

The discovery of America, opened up one half of this globe of ours, to the benefits flowing from that other grave and great event, in the history of this world, the birth of Christ.

This whole Western Continent in its civilization, laws and methods of life has been touched and is now governed and directed by the genius I spirit of Christianity, the outcome of that first event which seems to be the only epoch in this worlds progress of which this ignorant and stingy millionaire has ever had cognizance.

Money has done but little to instruct either the heart or the brain of this illiterate and mean millionaire; of what benefit will his wealth be to the world.

"You don't seem to tumble, my friend to my joke."
Thus sadly and glumly a humorist
spoke,
From his pride in his wit greatly humbled;
But fate had decided the point to reveal,
For the solemn old dufler came down with his heel
On a piece of ripe fruit and a part of the peel,
And then you may wager he tumbled.

WILLING TO SHIELD HIM.

Seedy Stranger [insinuatingly to barkeeper].—"Do you know who I am?"

Barkeeper (shortly).—"No; I don't."

Seedy Stranger (proudly).—"I'm the man who first used the expression 'In the soup.'"

Barkeeper.—"S'sh! Take the back door and run for it! I'll try to throw the people off the scent and give you ten minutes' start."

A FEARLESS JUDGE.

'Gentlemen of the jury,' said the Judge, when all the testimony had been heard, 'I don't think it is necessary to go into an argument concerning this case. The guilt of these men is so apparent that it would be criminal to use the county's money in prolonging this trial. Now, prisoners, the best thing you can do is to confess your guilt and throw yourselves upon the mercy of this Court. Have you any confession to make, Mr. White?'

'No, your Honor, except that I am innocent.'

'Have you any confession, Mr. Miller?'

'None, except to say that I had nothing to do with the killing of our friend Peters.'

'All right,' said the Judge. 'I see that you do not desire any mercy. But if you expect to escape punishment by making a prolonged fight, let me tell you that you will meet with nothing but disappointment. I am here as the fearless agent of justice. I have made up my mind. I am determined that you are guilty, and nothing on earth can change me. Gentlemen of the jury, you may retire and agree upon a verdict.'

'The jury, without leaving the box, rendered a verdict of guilty.'

'Gentlemen,' said the Judge, 'to expedite matters and thereby save expense to the county, I will sentence these men now. The law may be in favor of delay, but justice is not. The law might permit the sheriff to take these men to jail and feed them, at the county's expense, until some distant day of execution should arrive, but justice, the bright flower in our great judiciary garden of weeds, looks up and says: 'No, Mr. Sheriff; these men must be hanged forthwith;' so take them out, when the death sentence has been passed, and hang them to the nearest tree. Prisoners at the bar, stand up and receive your sentence.

The prisoners stood up, and just as the Judge had pronounced the last words of the sentence, the wife of Mr. Peters uttered a shout, and bounding towards the door, threw her arms around a man who had just entered the court room. A wild commotion followed.

'What's the matter,' the Judge demanded. 'Who is the man the bereaved widow is hugging?'

'I ain't no bereaved widow, Judge,' the woman answered, 'for this is my husband safe and well.'

'Silence woman,' the Judge demanded.

'You ought to have better sense than to interrupt the Court.'

'Your Honor,' said a lawyer, 'I suppose my clients can go free.'

'And why so, sir?'

'Can your honor ask such a question when Mr. Peters stands here before you?'

'Who is Mr. Peters?'

'Your Honor, I cannot understand you.'

'But you will pretty soon. The Mr. Peters that this Court has taken into consideration is dead.'

'No, I'm not,' exclaimed Mr. Peters stepping forward.

'You may think you are not, Mr. Peters, but you are. Never in my professional career,' the Judge went on, 'have I seen facts that so clearly and strongly establish the guilt of two men.'

'But, Judge,' pleaded Peters, 'that cannot be, for no murder has been committed.'

'Mr. Peters, you have not examined the evidence as closely as I have.'

'But here I stand in refutation of all evidence.'

'Mr. Peters, you have not read as many text books on evidence as I have. The case against these prisoners is perfectly clear. They swore they would drown you, and your coat was found near the river. Is that not strong evidence?'

'Yes, but—'

'Hold on. The body of a man was taken from the river and identified as your remains.'

'But I am here to refute the identification.'

'Ah, you are here to throw an obstruction in the way of justice, are you? I have heard on several occasions that you are a man who has very little respect for the decisions of a court, And you have come around here to bully me, and that too, in the face of the strongest evidence that was ever brought in a court of justice. Mr. Sheriff, issue a bench warrant for the arrest of this man on the grounds of contempt of court, and then proceed with the hanging. This Court, blind as it is to everything but justice and the true form of law, is getting tired of being browbeated.—N. Y. World.

Teacher's Permanent Certificates.

The examination of applicants for permanent certificates will be held in the new school building in Bellefonte on Friday and Saturday, April 4th and 5th, 1890. Candidates should make immediate application to the County Superintendent for the necessary blanks, which must be properly filled out and duly signed by their respective Board of Directors before they can enter the class. The County Superintendent will also hold an examination of applicants for professional certificates at the same time and place.

Wouldn't He Make a Pretty Governor.

The Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph, a staunch Republican paper, last evening published the following account, by a staff correspondent, of the corrupt method used in this city and throughout the county to purchase the delegates for Delamater in the coming Gubernatorial contest Comment is unnecessary.

No county gives a better illustration of the result of Chairman Andrews' attempted boss rule than does Blair.

Through his grip upon the machine, Andrews tried to force Delamater candidates on this county.

He had a conference with Chairman McDowell, of the Blair County Committee, shortly after the Boyer convention. Mr. McDowell before that time had been regarded as a Hastings man For some time after this there were reports afloat that McDowell was loaded with funds for an Andrews-Delamater boom. It is said that he spent considerable money among certain workers in Altoona and Hollidaysburg. One man, while under the influence of liquor, boasted that he had been given $50 to carry his precinct for Delamater. There were indications in a great many quarters of crooked manipulation at Andrews' instance.

Delamater, as usual, puts his foot in it. He thought that all that was necessary was to draw on the Standard Oil Company for more cash and give it to Andrews to buy Blair with. Although actively for Delamater for a time Chairman McDowell has of late been quiet and his barrel seems to have been emptied.

No better illustration of the contemptuous, high-handed way that Delamater employs could be given than the way he and Andrews have acted toward McDowell. The Blair Chairman is a well-meaning man, and I am told he resents the way in which Andrews orders him around. On Tuesday night last Andrews went East and expected to see McDowell at the Altoona depot. The Chairman was ill and unable to be there, and Andrews frightened the two men who were present to meet him by his vulgarity and profanity.

Worse than this is the way Andrews boasts that 'the old man" (meaning Quay) wants him to capture the county for Delamater. Some of Quay's warm friends promptly deny this, but Andrews repeats it just the same.

It is said that Chairman McDowell has taken offense at a sneering remark made by Delamater last Monday.

Delamater was talking to a friend in the depot and did not notice a young fellow who was standing nearby half hidden in a shadow.

They were discussing politics when Delamater said, without lowering his voice: "Where did you get that Chairman of yours? He is easy."

Naturally Mr. McDowell thinks this is rubbing it in on him.

The friends of Monteoth and Hastings have found that the rank and file of the party are flocking to their support. The cry is "anybody but Delamater,"

Mr. Andrews has not time to look after his newspaper lieutenants in their own towns and now they "serve" him on the train as he goes East or West.

On Tuesday he was busy giving orders to a Westmoreland editor all the way from the Union Depot in Pittsburg to Greensburg. Andrews had the Pullman with the curtains lowered and everything as secret as possible, but the editor walked out with a smile at Greensburg that told things were satisfactorily arranged as far as he was concerned. Fixing editors of county papers is one of Andrews' strong points. In some cases he has even gone so far as to buy out the papers entirely and put a new management in charge.

President Harrison, by Private Secretary Halford, has written the three condemned Navasse murderers, Henry Jones, Edward Smith and George Keys, that he has referred their cases to the Attorney General. The men are confident that they will not be hanged.

A big suit, in which the Government is the plaintiff, has been instituted in the United States Court at Montgomery Ala., against the Mobile and Girard Railroad, to recover 5,000 acres of land in this State, which was granted the State in trust for the Mobile and Girard and other railroads.

Friendship's a cool and calm delight,

Natural Gas for Altoona.

We find the following in the Altoona Times of last Saturday The Altoona Natural Gas Company struck a good gas well at the depth of 1,400 feet this evening. The loud roar can be heard quite a distance and every indication points to a strong supply. The "find" has created great excitement in this community and the Superintendent, J. H. Kelley, is jubilant at the good luck.

THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

It is a Little Late in the Season But it is Welcome Anyway.

About six o'clock Wednesday evening the snow began to fall without cessation. It snowed fast, too. About ten o'clock it appeared to be coming down at the rate of an inch every five minutes. Of course, it didn't snow that fast all night for this morning there was only about ten or twelve inches of the "beautiful" on the ground.

The storm seems to have prevailed pretty generally, telephone dispatches from all over the county give the storm as prevailing with about the same severity, although in some places there was a little more snow fell than in others, at Spring Mills there was only about six inches and still snowing. In Snow Shoe it was about twelve inches and snowing slowly.

It is no doubt a little late in the season for the snow but, all the same, it will undoubtedly be heralded with great joy and much satisfaction by the lumbermen. This will enable them to get in their lumber in good shape if the snow only remains with us long enough. Undoubtedly the lumber camps this morning are like so many hives of bees. The haulers and drivers swarming among the huge piles of logs that have been long waiting to be hauled to the mills for manufacture and market. This snow will undoubtedly be a boon to the lumbermen the value of which be hard to rate in dollars and cents, but it will be well up in the thousands.

M P Handy's Letter in the Scranton Truth

As the Governor of Pennsylvania Andrew G. Curtin promised that the bones of every soldier from that State, who died in the service should be brought home and buried in Pennsylvania soil, and the widow and orphans of every Pennsylvania soldier should be cared for and educated by the State. This promise was redeemed to the letter. In no national cemetery in the South is there a known Pennsylvania soldier's grave, and in the care of the soldier's widows and Soldier's orphans Pennsylvania has led every other State. It was also Governor Curtin's boast that no soldier's letter to him, however unimportant, was unanswered.

CELIA BLACKBURN NOT DEAD,

THE REPORT WAS PREMATURE—HER PRESENT CONDITION SERIOUS BUT NOT DANGEROUS.

A dispatch received in this place on Wednesday conveyed the sad intelligence that Mrs. Celia Blackburn, of Philadelphia had died there that day. The news was a severe shock coming with such surprising suddenness.

This morning, however, we are doubly pleased to state that the dispatch of Tuesday has been contradicted and that the latest intelligence is that Mrs. Blackburn is not dead only seriously ill and that there is a probability of her recovery. We have not been informed as to the nature or character of her illness but we rejoice, with her friends, that the first dispatch was not true.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease "Consumption," is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

DIED ON THE SCAFFOLD

Felix Kampf Pays the Penalty of the Law for Murder.

KILLED HIS TWO CHILDREN

He Accused His Daughter of Theft and Slashed Her Terribly with a Knife. When Her Brother Tried to Save Her, He Was Killed Also.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 8.—Felix Kampf was hanged in the jail yard here at 11 o'clock Friday morning. He died with scarcely a struggle, and was pronounced dead in twenty minutes.

His Crime.

The crime for which Felix Kampf suffered the ignominious penalty of death on the scaffold was the murder of his daughter Mary, aged 20, and his son William.

Their mother had been dead several years, and, owing to their father's disagreeable disposition, they left him several months previous to the murder, and were keeping house for themselves about a quarter of a mile from his home.

Upon going home on the night of Dec. 4, 1889, he found that a window had been raised and several articles were missing. He made up his mind that Mary had taken them, and went over to her house at once, taking with him a large dirk knife that he had carried for years.

Horribly Slashed.

He accused her of the theft and cut her terribly about the abdomen. Her brother, who was lying in bed, sprang up to defend his sister, and was also slashed horribly by his father, who, after committing the inhuman deed, returned home and went to bed, where he was arrested a short time after.

Both the victims died within twenty-four hours.

Kempf was born in 1825 at Offenburg, in Baden, where he spent his earlier years. His intelligence was of a low order, and it was very difficult for him to make himself understood even to people of his own nationality.

It was some time before he realized his position, even after being sentenced, but the last days of his life were spent in making preparations for a future world. He often spoke tenderly of his children, but never seemed to realize the enormity of his crime.

The execution was the first that ever took place in Kanawha county.

May Be Innocent.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., March 8.—This community is excited over what are claimed to be new developments in the case of Clinton Holden, who is under sentence of death for the murder of Frank Dodge. Allen Coon, who resides at Olivia, in Rennell county, twenty miles north of here, has written a letter to Mrs. Dodge, mother of the murdered man, in which he says he killed Frank Dodge in a quarrel resulting from the fact that the latter had wronged the writer's sister and refused to marry her. W. F. Holden, brother of the condemned man, is now here looking into the matter.

Consolidated with the K. of L.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., March 8.—At the session of the state miners' convention held here, the consolidation of their organization with the Knights of Labor was ratified, and it was decided to levy a tax of ten cents per capita per month to support the present association to carry the movement to perfect an organization in the state.

Burned to Death.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 8.—Ira S. Brown, aged 67, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the cottage of Policeman Isaac Fairbrother, in which he lived. Brown warned Fairbrother of the fire and helped him to save property. He lost his own life in returning to his attic chamber to save his own valuables.

Rubber Works Resume.

MALDEN, Mass., March 8.—Both factories of the Boston Rubber Shoe company have started up on full time, they having received a large number of orders from local dealers for rubber goods since the late snow storm. These factories, which employ 3,000 persons, have been partially closed down for the past two months.

Three Boys Drowned.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 8.—While trying to cross the river at Johnson's Island, sixteen miles above here, two sons of William Maples and a son of William Baker were drowned. They were in a frail boat, which capsized and the lads perished before help could reach them.

A Heavy Failure.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Monroe Eckstein & Co., brewers, at Four Corners, S. I., have made an assignment, giving preferences aggregating $123,001.09. They were rated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

BRIEF MENTION.

All hope of reaching the miners entombed in the burning South Wilkesbarre (Pa.) colliery has been abandoned. It will take a month before the portions of the mine not hitherto explored can be searched, owing to the time occupied in flooding the workings and pumping the water out again.

TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for re setting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Nswspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and eslicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the caso cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

THE SHOT WAS FATAL

Ex-Representative Taulbee Dies of His Wound.

KINCAID UNDER ARREST.

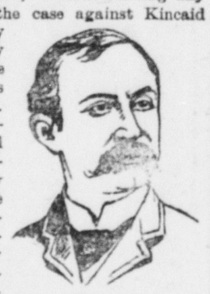
The Victim Dies Without Making a Statement—Only Two Witnesses of the Affray, and One Can't Be Found. Taulbee Wanted No Prosecution.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—William Preston Taulbee, a representative in congress from the Tenth Kentucky district in the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth congresses, who was shot in an altercation with Charles E. Kincaid, the Washington correspondent of The Louisville Times, in the house wing of the Capitol, on the afternoon of Feb. 28, died at 5 o'clock a. m. at Providence hospital.

His death has been expected for several days, but, while there was still a chance for his life, the physicians thought it advisable not to permit him to make an ante-mortem statement of the circumstances surrounding the shooting.

His Lips Sealed.

He died, therefore, without making any statement, and the case against Kincaid will rest entirely on the testimony of himself and the two eye witnesses of the tragedy. One of these witnesses was Samuel Donaldson, of Tennessee, formerly doorkeeper of the house of representatives, who has refused to make any statement for publication. Donaldson was with Taulbee at the time the shooting occurred. The other witness was a boy who cannot be found. The stories of the shooting differ in one important particular.



KINCAID.

The Shooting.

Kincaid and Taulbee had an encounter some time prior to the shooting in the corridor adjoining the house of representatives on the east. It was just before the shooting took place that Kincaid had armed himself, and after the first encounter with Taulbee, and, seeing him going down the stairs that led to the basement, had run after him, called to him, and as he turned shot him in the face.

Kincaid Arrested.

Kincaid claimed that he armed himself in fear of danger from a further encounter with Taulbee; that Taulbee had warned him to arm himself, and that Taulbee insulted and attacked him on their second encounter, rendering his resort to the pistol a necessity.

The theory of self defense will be set up by Kincaid's lawyer.

As soon as the news of Taulbee's death reached police headquarters an officer was sent to Kincaid's room. He was awakened, and after he had dressed was taken to the police station, where he now is.

The Murdered Man.

William Preston Taulbee, of Saylersville, was born in Morgan county, Ky., Oct. 22, 1851; was educated in private country schools; studied for the ministry from 1875 to 1878, and for the law from 1878 to 1881; was admitted to the bar in 1881; was elected clerk of the Magoffin county court in 1878 and re-elected in 1882; was elected to the Forty-ninth congress, and was re-elected to the Fiftieth congress as a Democrat, receiving 11,940 against 11,194 votes for Hurst, Republican.

TAULBEE.

The dispute between Taulbee and Kincaid had been of long standing. The correspondent had irritated Taulbee by sending to his paper, which circulated in Taulbee's district, an account of a woman scandal in which the congressman had been concerned at Washington. Kincaid denied any feeling of hostility, and argued that the matter had been published in Washington and elsewhere before he made use of it in his paper.

Didn't Want Him Prosecuted.

Taulbee, however, would accept no apologies or explanations, and Kincaid, although a quiet man, was led to believe himself in danger. As Taulbee was a man of large physique, while Kincaid is very small, his fears were worked upon by a "practical joker," who is largely responsible for the fatal encounter.

Mr. Taulbee had requested that no prosecution against Kincaid should be undertaken, but the law will be followed.

Offers a Thousand Dollars.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—The Times Tuesday morning printed the following in its editorial column: The Times publishing company, of Philadelphia, will pay a reward of $1,000 to the person or persons who may discover and bring to conviction in the New Jersey courts the murderer or murderers of Annie Leconey. The money will be promptly paid on the joint certificate of the judge who tries and the prosecuting attorney who prosecutes the case, after the final conviction of the murderer or murderers.

An Artist Attempts Suicide.

BOSTON, March 12.—Frank H. Tompkins, an artist of high repute, whose studio is at No. 85 Boylston street, attempted suicide in the street by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. He was taken to the hospital, where it is thought his chances for recovery are favorable. For several months Mr. Tompkins has been suffering from melancholia, and has been under a doctor's care. He is a native of Cleveland, O., aged 32, unmarried, and has studied in Munich.

ALBANY LEGISLATION.

Proceedings in the Senate and in the Assembly.

ALBANY, March 12.—Among the bills introduced in the senate was one by Mr. Hawkins amending the charter of College Point.

By Mr. Deane—Giving the state board of health authority to remove buildings where the drainage of villages becomes necessary to prevent the contamination of the water supply.

By Mr. Hawkins—Prohibiting the catching of oysters in daylight in South bay, or with blade and scraper tongs.

By Mr. Saxton—Amending the rural cemetery act, relative to burial of veterans at public expense.

By Mr. Sloan—For auditing the claims of the assembly ceiling experts.

By Mr. Linson—Prohibiting in Ulster, Greene, Duchess, Delaware, Columbia or Orange counties the killing of game birds or trout for the purpose of selling the same.

The general registration bill prepared by the statutory revision commission came up on special order, but it was put over and made the special order for Wednesday, March 19, in order that it might in the meantime be printed.

In the Assembly.

ALBANY, March 12.—The following bills were introduced in the assembly:

Mr. Adams—Revising the charter of Newburg.

Mr. L'Hommedieu—Authorizing the Orleans County Agricultural society to bond itself to pay indebtedness.

Mr. Rice—For the further protection of game in the counties of Dutchess, Orange, Ulster, Greene, Columbia, Sullivan, Scoharie and Delaware.

Mr. Fish's resolution, providing for Wednesday evening sessions, was adopted.

Bills passed: Mr. Guenther—Relative to the cost for the construction of Bailey avenue sewer, Buffalo.

Mr. Rhodes—Dividing New Rochelle into wards.

Mr. Sheehan—For incorporation of Young Men's Christian associations.

Mr. Lowders—Relative to the canal sinking fund tax.

The judiciary committee reported favorably Mr. Brady's bill making it a felony to sell pools away from race tracks.

STOLE $100,000.

A Lawyer Defrauds an Aged Couple Out of Their Property.

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—Jay Beright, an attorney of this city, was arrested in Chicago charged with having defrauded an aged colored man and his wife out of $100,000 worth of real estate in this city. Their names are John and Johanna Sweeney and they live here.

About ten days ago the negro, who is 78 years old and very feeble, decided to make his will. Last week Boright formulated the document, and it was acknowledged before a notary public named Rush C. Lake, witnessed and duly signed, sealed and delivered.

For some reason Mr. Lake became suspicious of the document. Upon investigation he found that it was a warranted deed for all the property made in Beright's favor, the consideration for which was $1.

He reported the matter to Chief of Police Speers. Last week the grand jury, which sat in Independence, returned an indictment against Beright, but he had learned of the indictment and escaped.

He was traced to Chicago. Requisition papers were obtained and an officer sent to bring him back. Beright will be returned to this city in charge of the officer.

The Kalamazoo Abduction.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 12.—The students attending college who secured a hearing before the faculty through a committee which asked to have those suspended for abducting two professors reinstated at the end of this term expected a reply at the chapel exercises. They were disappointed. After chapel exercises Dr. Wilcox tapped the bell for the students to go to their classes, but they did not move. He tapped it again, and the result was that all the students went to their rooms and homes, except five, two of whom were a son and daughter of President Wilcox. It looks very much as though the faculty had voted itself out of work. The students held another meeting yesterday afternoon, but no action was taken, as it is hoped that the faculty will reconsider their decision.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

Lieut. Col. William Smith, deputy paymaster general, to be paymaster general with the rank of brigadier general.

James A. Wood, of New Hampshire, to be consul of the United States at Sherbrooke.

Charles B. Wilson, of Louisiana, to be surveyor general of Louisiana (William Gregg withdrawn).

G. B. Patterson, of Florida, to be United States attorney for the Southern district of Florida.

George G. Briggs, to be postmaster at Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. W. Davis, of District of Columbia, to be justice of the peace for the District of Columbia.

Fire in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, March 12.—The buildings Nos. 47 and 49 Newark avenue were burned. No. 47 was occupied on the ground floor by Doyle's liquor saloon. His loss is about $5,000. The first floor of 49 was occupied by E. S. Jackson & Co., dealers in wall paper, and the second and third floors by the P. H. O'Neil association. Jackson & Co.'s loss is very heavy. The O'Neil association sustained a loss of $2,500. The buildings belonged to the Klein estate, whose loss will be about $10,000.

Foreign Contract Labor.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Among 927 immigrants who arrived here today on the Elder, over 80 per cent. have come to work in the mines. The majority of them are Hungarians and Silesians. They are going to work in the mines near Pittsburg. The men were well posted and they did not give the authorities a chance to detain them. The emigration commissioners will take action in the matter.

The Iroquois Disabled.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., March 12.—United States steamer Iroquois arrived in port yesterday in distress. She left Honolulu on Nov. 20 for Samoa, to relieve the Adams, and stopped at Marshal and Gilbert Islands. After leaving Gilbert Islands the piston rod of the forward engine broke, and the ship began leaking at Blow Valve. A succession of heavy gales prevented the vessel from returning to Honolulu, and she was forced to go north. Provisions and fuel ran short, and officers and crew have been on half rations since Feb. 15. The crew suffered greatly from the sudden change of the tropical climate to the severe cold of the north.

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY.

The Dead Body of a Young Jewish Woman Found in a Cellar.

SMASHED WITH A HAMMER.

The Murderer Supposed to Have Been a Polish Jew Who Murdered a Man a Month Ago and Then Committed Suicide.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A most foul and uncanny crime has been unearthed here. The ghastly corpse of a young Jewess, the head wound around with an old coat and the entire body then wrapped in tailor's canvas to resemble a huge bundle of coats, was discovered in the filthy cellar of No. 1 Eldridge street.

When the body was exposed to the light the head was found to be horribly crushed in as with a heavy hammer, her face ripped apart with frightful gashes, and the tongue protruded from the swollen and purple mouth.

The body was frozen stiff, and it appeared as though the unfortunate creature had been murdered somewhere else and then brought to the cellar and dumped there to rot.

In the pocket of the dress was a little strip of note paper, with these words written in Hebrew in a neat feminine hand: "To my dear Freda, with my"——

In the Morgue.

It is believed the horrible crime was committed by Isaac Jacob, who lived in the house where the body was found, and who, on Feb. 16, killed his enemy, Jacob Rogozinski; tried to kill Mrs. Rogozinski and her son and then killed himself. The body was removed to the morgue, with all its bloody wrappings, by the police of the Eldridge street station.

The spot where the body was found by old Mrs. Levy was covered to the depth of several inches with corn husks, evidently from a bed, and the little box like place was comparatively clean as compared with other parts of the grimy cellar.

There was nothing to see as the flame of the candle threw an uncertain light on the rough board, and the curious, satisfied with merely looking, withdrew and went upstairs and out in the rain with a feeling of relief.

Looking for Clews.

They had not been gone very long when Detectives Connor and Mullane, from the Eldridge street station, came around. They borrowed Mrs. Levy's candle, which had become common property by this time, and which was almost burned to the socket, and went down into the cellar again. They dug around among the corn husks and found a piece of bed ticking, folded up. When it was spread out it was found to be spattered with blood. In the center it had at some time been torn, for it had been rudely patched with about a yard of white muslin.

Every bit of clothing which did not belong to the woman was a clew, and this was looked upon as important, partly because it was blood stained and partly because of the white patch, which would make recognition a simple matter.

Jacob the Slayer.

From the beginning the detectives, and every one else about the neighborhood, for that matter, had made up their minds that Isaac Jacob, the vengeful Polish Jew, who in the middle of February murdered Herman Rogozinski and then killed himself, was the slayer of the mutilated woman found in the cellar.

Then the detectives started out to find some one who knew Jacob well enough to identify his clothing and the arrangements of his room, so that if he had at one time worn the brown coat it might be known. They did not have far to go, for up in the schoolroom, seated with the hundred and odd Hebrew school children, was Isaac Shapiro, aged 12 years, a bright little Jewish boy. He lives now at 72 Hester street, but at one time he lived with old Isaac Jacob, who seemed to have taken quite a liking to him. At any rate, the boy was the only one the crabbed, ugly dispositioned fellow was ever kind to, and he slept in the first floor front for a long time.

The Police Satisfied.

When the detectives found an interpreter they all went down stairs where the bloody sheet was.

"Did you ever see that before?" they asked the boy.

"Yes, yes," he replied excitedly. "That used to be in old Jacob's room. I used to sleep on that."

That was enough for the officers. They hurried the boy to the station house and showed him the coat which had been wrapped about the head of the dead woman.

"Yes, that is Jacob's coat," he said. "Oh, I know that."

"Are you sure?" asked the detectives.

"Sure! yes, of course; didn't it used to hang on a nail by the door? He only wore it once in a while."

Out of Their Reach.

Then they went up to the morgue—detectives, the boy, and a Jewish officer to act as interpreter. There a light, striped zephyr quilt, which had been found by the body, was recognized by the boy as having served Jacob as a pillow. That was enough for the officers, and it proved conclusively they were correct in their first theory. Their work was done; the chase was ended. The murderer long ago had passed out of their bailiwick.

A Bad Man.

While Jacob lived in the house he created a reign of terror. The men kept out of his way and the children ran at his approach. He was a sort of goblin, and the mothers used to tell their boys when they wanted them to stay in that if they went out old Jacob would get them. He boasted that he had more than one wife, and would go over a list of those whom he intended killing. There were quite a number he had calculated to murder, but his own death had been forced on him so suddenly that he had not been able to carry out all of his plans.

Col. Smith Dead.

BUFFALO, March 12.—Col. Howard M. Smith, a well known coal dealer, died from Bright's disease, aged 51. He had an enviable war record, having served in the One Hundred and Thirtieth New York infantry and First New York dragoons.

Moriarty Won.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 12.—Al Connors, of Providence, and Morris Moriarty, of this city, wrestled last night in Bowenville for $300 a side. Moriarty won.

BIG ROBBERY IN SNOW SHOE.

T B Budinger's Store Broken Into and Robbed of Hundreds of Dollars.

On Monday night robbers broke open the back window of T B Budinger's store room, in Snow Shoe, and gained an entrance to the store. They at once proceeded to business by ransacking almost every drawer in the store. They then broke the combination of the safe and blew open the door with powder. A roll of checks was taken amounting to about four hundred dollars. Among said checks were the following :

One drawn by Beecher and Sober in favor of Boak and Adams for $275.56.

Another drawn by ——————— in favor of Eliza Lewis for $36.

Another drawn by John Madill in favor of T B Budinger for $20.

Another drawn by E Hugg in favor of Charles Ness for $12.

By request of Mr. Budinger banks, business places and all persons in general are cautioned not to cash any of the above checks and to require of any man presenting same a full explanation of how he came to have them in his possession.

In addition to the above there were several smaller checks—whose, is not yet definitely known. The robbers then took the small iron safe containing the cash drawer and a lot of notes and carried it off entirely. The amount it contained we have not been able to obtain as Mr. Budinger went to Williamsport last night and none but himself knew the contents of the little safe.

No suspicion is yet directed to anyone in particular. The authorities have been notified and every measure will be taken to apprehend and arrest the thieves.

"March April May."

The appearance of this familiar headline in the newspapers immediately suggests to everybody the use of that popular medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, with which it is inseparably connected by many years of use in advertising.

There is no question but that at this season nearly everybody needs to take a reliable blood purifier to cleanse the system of impurities which have accumulated during the winter, and the popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a "spring medicine" is simply wonderful. Druggists say the sale of this remedy is larger than that of any other in their stores, and in many cases exceeds the sale of all other sarsaparillas and blood purifiers combined.

It is pertinent to inquire the reason for this great business which has grown up so rapidly as to cause amazement throughout the retail and wholesale drug trade. Followed down to rock bottom, the fact seems to be that the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla rests upon the basis of absolute merit. The medicine has proven so generally successful for those complaints and diseases for which it is advertised, that it has won its way to the front among medicines Of course liberal advertising has helped greatly, but many people have learned to their sorrow that the most lavish expenditure in advertising avails nothing if not backed up by merit in the goods.

Thousands of our readers will take Hood's Sarsaparilla this season; and to those who have never tried it, we say take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a "spring medicine."

Howard Happenings.

HOWARD, PA., March 10.

The ice men are busily engaged to-day filling their ice houses.

Jacob Deitz, who has been seriously ill for some time, is again to be seen on our streets.

The protracted meeting in the M. E. church is still in progress. There have been several conversions and others are still seeking for God's favor.

Rev. N. H. Schenck, pastor of the Hughesville M E church, is now visiting his invalid mother, Mrs. Jonathan Schenck. He preached in the M E church on Sunday evening and the subject of his discourse was the following verse: "Almost thou persuaded me to be a christian." For about one hour the large audience present sat spell bound because of his masterly reasoning and grand eloquence. Rev. Schenck is a fine speaker.

On Sunday evening our generally quiet village was thrown into a state of nervous excitement over the receipt of a telegram announcing the accident which resulted in the death of J. Linn Smith. Up to this time no particulars have been received. The remains arrived here on the morning mail train and were at once conveyed to his father's home from where the funeral will occur to-morrow (Tuesday) at 9 o'clock a. m., interment to be made in Schenck's cemetery. Linn Smith was an old railroader and at the time of the accident was in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company. On the fifteenth of this month he had intended to quit railroading, come home to Howard and assume active control of the notion store in this place which he started about a year ago. His friends were anxiously awaiting the time, but alas! instead of greeting him on our streets on his return we are called to follow his lifeless remains to their last resting place. Our heartfelt sympathies are with the bereaved ones.

Lock Haven.

All Lock Haven's various industries are in full blast and the prospect for new ones being established this coming spring and summer is good. Boom the town. It is a nice place to live, and has regained its former reputation for healthfulness, which was somewhat damaged by reports after the flood. It is true there was a good deal of sickness here caused by the big overflow and the deposits of mud and filth, but there is but little if any now, and where for a while it became a common thing to record deaths almost every day, it has become a rare thing since. The health of the city is good and we know of but little sickness anywhere.—L. H. Democrat.

Millheim Murmurings.

Sunday was a very nice day so far as weather was concerned.

Mrs. Charles Kreamer and Miss Eva Kreamer, of Bellefonte, were visiting their parents over Sunday.

Miss Katie Stover, of Penn street, departed for Bellefonte last week where she expects to spend a few months to learn dress-making.

Mrs. David Stine is lying very ill at this writing. Hope she may soon regain her former health.

Rev. W. H. Stover, accompanied by Mr. H. L. Stein, went to York to attend the conference of the Evangelical church which was in session at that place last week.

Capt. C. Dale, of Pleasant Gap, spent Monday night in this place attending the G. A. R. camp fire.

Mr. F. H. Harter, editor of the Middleburg Post, accompanied by his estimable wife visited their relatives in this place over Sunday.

Mr. R. A. Bumiller, editor of the Millheim Journal, was off to Sugar valley where he expected to take in part of the convention, and to get an eye on the metalic medals, with an eagle spread thereon.

The Rev. M. L. Deitzler preached a very interesting sermon in the Lutheran church in this place on Sunday.

Mr. Philip Leitzel's house is up but the roof is not put on yet. It will make Philip hop around lively to get his house ready to move into by the first of nex April.

Why let the baby suffer and perhaps die, when a bottle of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup would at once relieve it and effect a cure. Only 25 cents a bottle.

Persons of sedentary habits, and overworked find in Laxador a specific for want of appetite, palpitation, debility, constipation, and many other ailments. At all druggists. Price 25 cents.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, has no other preparation ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

THE MINE EXPLOSION.

Eight Horribly Mutilated Bodies Taken from the Pit.

NO HOPE FOR THE OTHERS.

The Dead Believed to Number 150—Miss Vincent Acquitted of the Shooting of Mr. Isaacs, M. P.—The Berlin Labor Conference.

LONDON, March 12.—Eight bodies, horribly mutilated, have been taken out of the Morsa pit so far.

It is rumored that the rescuers have heard appeals for help coming from entombed men, but the rescuers are unable to push their search because of the gas and flame which confront them.

The number of dead is now placed at 150 by the officials, but it is feared many more have perished.

The latest news from the Morsa mine disaster is that four of the entombed men succeeded in crawling through a crevice between the roof of the mine and the debris.

They report that they passed over heaps of dead miners, and express the belief that none of the other entombed men are alive.

Miss Vincent Not Guilty.

LONDON, March 12.—The hearing in the case against Elizabeth Vincent, charged with shooting Lewis Henry Isaacs, member of parliament for Newington Walworth, and wounding him in the arm, because, as alleged, he refused to sign a certain number of checks for her, was resumed today at Richmond.

Mr. Isaacs took the stand and testified that the woman Vincent, after inveigling him into her house, demanded that he sign a paper admitting that he had assaulted her.

This he refused to do, when she drew a revolver and shot him in the arm. He asked the court to be lenient with the prisoner, declaring that he was exceedingly fond of her and passionately loved her child.

Dr. Coker was the next witness. He testified that he had heard the Vincent woman threaten to shoot Mr. Isaacs and all his family, and then commit suicide.

The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The Labor Conference.

LONDON, March 12.—The official correspondence between England and Germany with regard to the coming labor conference has just been made public. Lord Salisbury, in his reply accepting the invitation of Germany to send a delegate to the conference, refused to in any way lend his influence to the promotion of the proposed legal restriction of the hours of labor.

PARIS, March 12.—The cabinet has selected the following named gentlemen to represent France at the Berlin labor conference: Senators Jules Simon and Tolain, Deputy Burdeau, Inspector of Mines Linderau and M. Delbaye, a mechanic.

BERLIN, March 12.—Dr. Kopp, bishop of Breslau, has been appointed a delegate to the Berlin labor conference.

Killed by Brigands.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 12.—A terrific encounter between Turkish troops and a band of brigands has taken place at Elossona. The Turks succeeded in dispersing the brigands, but lost twenty killed in the fight, while the brigands lost only six.

Professor Gildemeister Dead.

BERLIN, March 1.—Professor Gildemeister, the orientalist, is dead.

The Pastor's Son Hazed.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., March 12.—Will Dudley, a young man of 18, son of the pastor of the First Congregational church, was outrageously hazed by ten young ruffians at the Washington High school. Just after school Joe Alexander, son of a member of the board of education; George McGregor, son of the principal of the high school, and eight others fell upon Dudley, dragged him down stairs, pounded, cuffed and punched him, pulled off his trousers and wound up by cutting off close to the head a large patch of hair with a pair of horse clippers. The hazers are to be arrested.

BRIEF MENTION.

A delegation of blind girls, inmates of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, in Philadelphia, waited on Principal Battles and protested against the coarseness and unwholesomeness of the food. The boys have made a similar protest to the governor. Because of the alleged mismanagement of the school, two teachers have resigned and cruel punishment is charged.

A mob of 400 men, with a field piece, assembled in front of the jail at Spartansburg, S. C., to lynch George S. Turner, a factory owner who killed his brother-in-law, but they were driven off without bloodshed by the sheriff and mayor of the city.

The house committee on war claims authorized a favorable report on Representative Maish's bill to pay citizens of Pennsylvania for damages done by troops of the two armies during the war, known as the border claims.

Mrs. Charles Baily, who was arrested a raving maniac in Nashville, Tenn., proved to be a former school teacher of Scottdale, Pa., a Miss Minnie Lowry, whose elopement with Baily, an actor, was the talk of the county two years ago.

J. Kenneth Watson testified during the examination of Peter J. Claassen, the New York bank wrecker, that he was made a director of the Lenox Hill bank by Mr. Simmons, who gave him some of the stock of the bank as a present.

The relatives of five of the miners who were killed by the explosion in the Nottingham colliery, at Plymouth, have begun suit against the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company for $20,000 damages in each instance.

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.

Glowing Words.

"Jason," the versatile Huntingdon county newspaper correspondent has been giving some points on Methodist ministers, and among others has the following to say about Rev. W. A. Houck, of this place :

"Long as I have known the Rev. W. A. Houck, of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church, I have loved and revered him, and I never saw a blemish in his character nor a flaw in his christianity. We were scarcely sixteen years old when we found our way to the Cassville Seminary and there we stayed five years until we had finished the course. Even in those days, it was for the pulpit that he made the most vivid impression upon my mind. Today he seems like one of the skilled of ancient Egypt or Judah, a student both of the book of Nature and of that of the Word—a true priest of the Lord, going before his fellowmen with unsullied garments, in the paths of religion and christianity, not to challenge attention to himself, but only to show that the path of devotion to the Master is the only wise and safe one to follow. Religion is the keynote upon which he bases all his versatile play of beautiful thought. True character is the aim of this good preacher. True philosophy is to him the right Theosophy. And all that is real and beautiful in man, in the realm of man's world, Nature, and in God's Holy Word, has value to him and is loved, imitated and spoken of by him to all those who look up to him as a guide. Loving the Methodist Episcopal church and her great book concern in New York, he told his congregation all about it a few Sundays ago. He is a true, safe pastor, and only when the time for resting and awaiting reward and exaltation come, will it discover how great an influence for good his work exerted. Though the light of his star is no longer shining as a presiding elder, its reflection, caught in the retinae of many memories, will stand ever unforgotten, just as it has been photographed upon the tablet of the constellations of the Central Pennsylvania Conference.

Words of Advice.

To those who require a stimulent. There are many to whom we could recommend you: We think there are just as many honest Liquor dealers as there are dealers in any other class of merchandise, and again we believe that there are many who sell whiskey or any other commodity, who are not reliable. We have noticed that our best physicians and superintendents of hospitals have by there testimonials highly recommended Klein's Silver Age Rye therefore we say his is the place to which we would advise every one to go. He sells six years old Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson, or Overholt for $1 per full quart or six quarts for $5. Wines, Brandies, and Gins cheap as the cheapest. WILL VOTE FOR HASTINGS.

Cambria County Delegates for the Adjutant General.

William Hart, a prominent Republican of Johnstown and for several terms elected Justice of the Peace in a Democratic ward, was in Pittsburg Saturday and made a declaration that surprised politicians.

He said : "General Hastings will get the votes of the Cambria county delegates to the Republican State Convention, notwithstanding the fact that they were instructed to vote for Delamater for Governor. The force of public sentiment in favor of General Hastings has already convinced the delegates. General Hastings' friends have attempted a deal to bring about the result.

"If we thought it necessary we would call new primaries and elect delegates instructed for Hastings but that is not necessary. We are satisfied that the delegates are convinced it will not be wise for them to go to the State Convention and vote against General Hastings, who is the undoubted choice of the Republicans of Cambria county."

Waked up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous cholagogues. A gentler, pleasanter and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouched for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the billary organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant up on health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effective is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

An April Trip to Washington via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On April 3d the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will offer a most desirable opportunity of visiting Washington. It is a period of the year when the handsome city wears its most attractive aspect and it is also a time when the Government departments are busiest. Milliken's Bend.

The following extract is taken from a letter received from Mr. William McKain, proprietor of the Madison House, at Tallulah, Madison Parish, La : 'While I was merchandising at Milliken's Bend, in this parish, during the year '87 and '88, I sold large quantities of Swift's Specific [S S S], and during that time every one that used the medicine was loud in its praise. Among those who were benefited by S S S was a man—since dead—who had cancer in its most malignant form: He had spent a small fortune in trying to effect a cure, but without success. After the knife had been used there was still a cancerous taint left in his blood, the wound never healing. I finally persuaded him to try S S S, and it alone eradicated the cancer, and he recovered perfect health. From that time until his death, which was several years, a symptom of the disease never returned."

Plays Great Ball.

New York Sun.

John M Ward bids fair to become the Napoleon of base ball. A certain lesson is to be learned from the success of the players in their efforts to make successful shoving against the moneyed men of the League. The out-door life which the players have led, their incessant travel, and the necessity of meeting all sorts of people in the different places have had the effect of making alert minds as well as strong constitutions. The sport in some respects is the highest form of athletics and the players are often men of unusual intelligence. The public had no idea how much diplomacy, skill and brain work they were capable of until the present fight came on. Mr. Ward seems to hold the whip hand among them, too. He is certainly a popular idol of no mean importance. Aside from his skill as a player, he has written entertainingly and clearly, and he is a lawyer of some ability.

In Defence of Wanamaker.

Editor Daily News.

Your article under the capton of 'Wanamaker a calamity to the Republican party' in Wednesday's NEWS is an unwarranted attack upon Wanamaker in his fight for the cause of the people against a grasping greedy corporation. You appear to be utterly oblivious of the fact that it is a fight for the news paper as well and calling upon the republican press of the country to call a halt upon such actions by the Post Master general, when the press of all parties has been and will continue to advocate the national control of the telegraph, is only cutting the throat of the party and will lose to it more than its gains.

Your deductions, as to its probable effect, are certainly wrong. Four years ago, petitions from every congressional district in the United States were sent to Congress signed by almost one million names in support of a postal telegraph system. Now, then, if we can use that just as a criticism to judge the sentiments of the people on the question, will not the party that advocates a measure of that kind receive the support of those people? Undoubtedly so; where then are the grounds for an adverse conclusion?

The Republican party claims, and may perhaps be justly called, the party of progress, and granting this to be the truth how can it be built upon foundations of which the corner stone is the protection of private enterprise and at the same time insure prosperity to the government? Again, how can it disburse justice and equity to all whilst it protects private enterprise? It has protected private enterprise in the form of the Western Union and other telegraph companies by allowing them to rob the people of this country of $100,000,000, in the space of twelve years on an invested capital of less than one-fourth of that amount. Do we call this progress? Is it dispensing justice and equity to all the people to allow one portion to rob the other?

The Postmaster General does not go quite far enough in his proposition. He should recommend that the government engage in the telegraph business and own and operate its own lines. The transmission of intelligence in the early days of the country was in the hands of private individuals, then the government established the post office system and the people claimed it as their right to carry the mails in their governmental capacity. If there had been any idea of the extent which the business would increase at that time their would have been shylocks raising the cry that the government had no right to enter into it, the same as there are now when it is recommended that the government establish a telegraph system. How ready were the inventors of the telegraph to ask for an appropriation from Congress to establish the first line of telegraph? No private enterprise would venture to invest $40,000 in its establishment. Oh, no. They wanted the Government to experiment with it and discover its merits for their own benefit. The people of the United States made the first telegraph lines a success and why not allow them to reap the benefit of their first investment? They must have it and they will have it. The cry has gone up all over the land for relief from the oppression of monopoly and the party that will heed the cry and demand of the people, will be the party of the future.

If the Republican party commits itself to the establishment of a National Telegraphic System, instead of it being a calamity or its advocates being such, it will only be the means of inspiring confidence in the hearts and minds of the people, Let the party arouse itself from its lethargy listen to the voice of the people, and take hold of this and similar questions with the same spirit it did when the Slave] question was agitating the minds of this great Republic. On the other hand permit itself to be lead by men of such pessimistic views, it will never more hold the reins of government.

In conclusion you say: "That a great political party should be held responsible for the vagaries of a cabinet minister is quite deplorable, but when these affect in their purpose the material interests of large classes of the people, his attitude visits the party as a calamity by insuring its defeat in great States, precariously Republican." The large (?) classes affected by the proposed legislation: How large a class is it? one in one thousand. This is the most astonishing thing ever written. The fact is evidently overlooked that there are over sixty-five million people in this country. Another thing, if the republicans or any other party must be afraid to do a thing because it is right then it had better fail in the states "precariously Republican."

INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN.

Demorest's Magazine.

We have just been admiring one of the handsomest oilpictures of 'Jacque' Roses that we have ever seen, and had it been in an art-store we should have known that a good price would be asked for it. But imagine a work of art of such intrinsic value being obtained for nothing! for that is practically the case, as it is a supplement to DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for April. This wonderful publication has on its Easter garb, and it certainly is an attractive one. Each succeeding number appears to grow better and better, until we are forced to wonder what can be done to improve its present high standard of excellence. The fact of the matter is, there is but one purely family and home Magazine, and that is DEMOREST'S. The illustrations are works of art, and some of the articles which they illustrate are 'Orchids,' 'The Manhattan Working-Girls' Society,' 'The Easter Lily,' 'The Forbidden Place,' or "The Haran Esch Scherif in Jerusalem," "In the Grasp of the Grip," "Easter Eggs Novelties," "Kindergarten Work and Play for the Home," etc., besides numerous other articles and stories, including "A Woman's Kitchen Garden," "Our Cooking Class," "Preserving Garments from Moths," "The Art of Letter Writing," "Madge Benfield's Easter Ghost," etc., etc. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. Every newsdealer ought to keep this valuable publication, and we suppose they do. It shows the magic power of 20 cents, ond the great distance that a small amount can be made to go.

A BOY MILLIONAIRE.

ONLY TEN YEARS OLD, YET POSSESSING A FORTUNE OF $5,000,000.

Worth $5,000,000 and only 10 years old, This is the state of affairs with little Marshall Roberts, the son of the late millionaire, Marshall O Roberts. He is the youngest millionaire in town and one of the richest. There are hundreds of children in New York who will probably some day inherit one or more millions, but little Marshall Roberts already inherits his vast fortune, and in 11 years it will be entirely in his control.

His father was one of the great merchants of the day, and when he died some four years ago he left an estate valued at $10,000,000. The little boy did not have his entire fortune bequeathed him, because there were other claimants with equal rights to it.

When Mr. Roberts died he was an old man. His widow, one of the beautiful young society women of our metropolis and the mother of little Marshall, was his second wife His first wife was 30 years her senior, and had a daughter who is now Mrs. Ames Van Wart. Mrs. Van Wart has a daughter, Miss Evelyn Van Wart, who is 20 years old. This makes young Mrs. Roberts, who is now but 30, stepmother to a lady of 40 and step-grand mother to a young lady of 20, and the little millionaire of 10 uncle to a maiden twice his age.

When Mr. Roberts died he left a will dividing his money between his wife his granddaughter and his little son. The son has half of the fortune for his own use but until he comes of age his mother is to have the income from $5,000,000.

—We are sorry to be compelled to announce that Hon. Leonard Rhone, Worthy Master of the State Grange is again quite indisposed. Last week he went to Washington to assist his collegue on the Legislative Committee appointed by the National Grange—Brothers Brigham and Trimble—in presenting to the Committee on Ways and Means of the National Congress the views of the National Grange on certain matters of legislation. On his return he found his health so precarious as to demand that he dismiss all mental and physical labor for the present. In his illness Brother Rone will have the heartfelt sympathy of every Patron in the county.—Farmers' Friend.

—The value of the DAILY NEWS as an advertising medium is apparent from the following: On Tuesday we inserted a two line notice of "Plumber wanted" and in less than a half hour after the paper was on press there were two applications. On Wednesday we had in a local calling for a donation of lead pencils and before supper we were offered nearly a dozen, but as they were only penny pencils we would not take them.

CUPID'S ANTICS.

Marriage of a Prominent Bellefonte Dentist With a Charming Centre Hall Belle.

J. Edward Ward, of Bellefonte, and Miss Maggie M Stiver, of Centre Hall, were joined in wedlock on Wednesday, March 5th, at 12 o'clock, M., the Rev. W E Fischer performing the ceremony. There was no attempt at anything elaborate at this wedding. Everything being done in the best of taste, and with the greatest simplicity, which is most commendable under any circumstances. The guests were not numerous, including only such of the immediate friends and relatives who were accessible, and a few of the most intimate friends of our town. A feature of the wedding was one, regarded now more in the breach than the observance, but which is always appropriate and pleasing, I mean the decoration of the rooms in evergreen. It was under the green of wooded lands that our primitive fathers and mothers were wedded, with the beauteous green for a carpet, and the healthgiving aroma of myrtle and pine for a stimulant. A little more of this now, would not only be emblematic to the wedded pair, but would add most materially to the enchantment of the surroundings. The bride is well known in this community and bears, as she deserves, the reputation of being an estimable lady. Her many charms of sociability and her good mental equipment must certainly give her a passport to the best society. Dr. Ward has made a good choice for a helper through life, and looks himself the very picture of health, a husband on whom a devoted wife may lean and from whom she may confidently expect sympathy and whole-hearted devotion.

The usual wedding march accompanied the ceremony, and was very well executed. Hearty congratulations followed. A sumptuously prepared dinner was enjoyed by the guests. The presents were beautiful and appropriate, a good round sum of money being one of them. Among the more familiar faces from among our near neighbors, were those of Miss Emma McCoy and Miss Lillie Allison, who lent no little vivacity to the occasion, The Chinaman's rice betokening good luck, was plentifully showered after the bride and groom as they left the house for the 3:20 train on a trip to the East, and Miss Emma McCoy breathed the tripple blessing into a slipper that was hurled after the vanishing forms.

All in all, this was a model wedding and the bride and groom have the best wishes of their many friends. We presume Mrs. Ward's future home will be in Bellefonte, where her husband enjoys a liberal patronage in his profession of dentistry.—Centre Reporter.

Coal and Iron Lands.

The Philipsburg Ledger says: Messrs C. A. Faulkner and John B. Howe have been spooking around quietly picking up coal and iron lands. They have purchased a splendid tract of 300 acres of excellent coal at Gazzam, within two miles of the Beech Creek railroad. The coal opens up 4 feet 11 inches thick and is the best yet found in that locality. Messrs. Faulkner and Howe have also found and leased 100 acres of celebrated Moshannon vein at Muddy Run-only one-half mile from the Moshannon Branch R R leading to Belsena. The coal is 3 feet to 3 feet 8 inches thick and is of a splendid quality. Another of their recent acquisitions is a tract of 300 acres of fossil iron ore in Bald Eagle Valley, near Martha Furnace. They have had a tempting offer for this piece of property, but do not care to sell, as it is worth much more than the amount offered and they think of operating it themselves.

Fourteen Degrees Below Zero.

This morning was undoubtedly and unquestionably the coldest one of the season, it was just that cold that it might very readily have been taken for a winter morning. At W. C. Keplinger & Co's drug store at five o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 10 degrees below zero. At McKee's hardware store Mr. Ludwick looked at thermometer between six and seven o'clock and it then registered 12 degrees below, Dr. Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, came to town this morning and he said that out there the mercury went down to 14 degrees below zero. At Milesburg it is not definitely known what the register was. At Snow Shoe it is said to have been only 5 degrees below. This is enough, however to convince our readers that it was cold and now if such weather don't make ice why it will be a wonder.

They Visited Milesburg.

About twelve members of Bellefonte Council, No. 270, O. U. A. M. went to Milesburg on Thursday evening, in Isaac Lose hack, for the purpose of paying a friendly visit to Milesburg Council, No. 230. It was the regular meeting night of the Milesburg Council and the Bellefonte boys were received very cordially and treated with the utmost hospitality, as a member who was with the crowd expressed it "they had a jolly good time." The Council had a watch drawing and the lucky man was E C Allan of Excelsior Council, No 2, Waterbury Connecticut. The watch was a very valuable one, being a handsomely engraved, gold case, and valued at one hundred dollars. It bore on the face part of the case the emblem of the order traced in the engraver's most artistic style and design.

DuBois, the Millionaire.

The Punxsutawney Spirit says it is to the credit of John E. Dubois, the young millionaire lumberman of DuBois, whose wealth is estimated all the way from eight to twelve million dollars, that he is as modest and unassuming as a school girl, and as genial and condescending as a candidate. Most men, upon falling heir to ten millions, would become very much inflated, and make a great ostentation of wealth. He would say by his every action "I am a millionaire—do not forget that," but John E. DuBois is the exact antipodes of this. A person who did not know him would never suspect him to be a man of wealth, and they would never find it out by any word or action of his. A gentleman of this place who accompanied Mr. DuBois on a trip through the West says that in all his travels he never said or did anything that would lead any one to suspect that he was a man of more than ordinary means. In one instance our informant said, he was considerably amused at a man out in Indiana. They were talking about a horse and the Hoosier remarked that" the man who owned that horse was rich--that he could buy and sell all three of us ten times over." Mr. DuBois' companion said he was on the point of telling the fellow that the owner must then be worth more than Vanderbilt or Gould, but as Mr. DuBois seemed to take no notice of the remark whatever, he decided to let the man remain in blissful ignorance. The elder DuBois was noted for his shrewd business tact, and his strong common sense and it is generally admitted that the crowning act of his successful career, and the most sensible thing he ever did in his life, was the assignment of his immense estate to his favorite nephew, John E. Dubois.

A Thoughtful Boy and a Brave One.

Johnny Vail, the young son of Mr. Pat Vail of Decatur township, says the Philipsburg Ledger, is a boy of uncommon presence of mind. A few nights ago he and his little sister were asleep in bed with a lamp burning on a stand close to the bed. The children were restless and in tossing about the lamp was dislodged from the stand and fell to the floor and broke and the flood of oil ignited. The crash wakened the children and little Johnny, with a presence of mind that would have done credit to a man, instead of screaming and running, seized his clothes and his sister's dress and smothered the flames, thereby preventing a fire that would in all probability have burned the house but for his prompt action. Good boy, that.

The Hasting Boom Still Lives.

From the Lock Haven Democrat

We don't hear so much about the General Hastings boom for Governor, but nevertheless it is alive and kicking. The General has a great many friends around these parts, who will be apt to do all they can to secure him the Republican nomination. Quay is in bad odor with the better portion of the Republican party, and especially since his exposure by the New York World. Though Paxson, Delamater, Osborne, Montooth and others are still in the field the Hastings steed yet prances in honorable pride around the Republican gubernatorial pasture field,

It Was His Birthday and He Was Sick.

Thursday was the birthday of Alfred Andrews. He was just 22 years old. A report was in circulation in the afternoon that the condemed man was sick nigh unto death and that two doctors were in constant attendance. A DAILY NEWS reporter visited the jail in the evening and found that the report was magnified considerably. Andrews was, and is yet, sick, but not seriously. Two doctors were with him but not because he was dangerously ill, and his condition now is greatly improved.

—Ex District Attorney Potter spent an hour in our sanctum, a few evenings ago. John is about to take the management of a farm at Marsh Creek, for Judge Oyvis, and get down to hard work which he has been at the past few years. The hand of misfortune has overtaken Mr. Potter. The flood swept his property at Milesburg, and shortly after fire destroyed his dwelling with all contents—thus leaving him about penniless, and dependent upon kind friends for a new start. He means to push on, however, and by industry and honest manual labor to make a living for his large family—Centre Reporter.

PINE GROVE MILLS SCORCHED.

A Store, with all its Contents, and Two Dwelling Houses Burned Down.

On Tuesday evening that always quiet and ever peacable village, Pine Grove Mills, was aroused into hurried activity by the startling cry of "fire." It was no time at all until the fact was discovered that it was the store house of Mr. D S Erb that was burning. Hundreds at once flocked to the scene and did everything to assist in distinguishing the flames, but so far as the store was concerned it did not avail, as the building with all its contents was burned to the ground. The building in which the fire originated was known as the Keller block, owned by Jacob Keller; one half was occupied by Erb's store and Mr. Keller occupied the other half as a dwelling.

The fire was next communicated to the frame house of Isaac Harper, and it, too, became a prey to the flames, owing to the high wind that prevailed. It was a very fortunate thing that snow and rain was falling at the time or all efforts to save other adjoining property, and while so successful, would have been without avail, and the destruction would have been far greater.

The room above the store in the Keller block was occupied by the Pine Grove band as a hall, but, fortunately, they were all present practicing that evening, and as soon as the fire was discovered, made good the removal of about all the property belonging to the band. Nothing of any account was saved from the store. Mr. Keller lost most of his household goods, but the most of the goods and furnishings in the house of Isaac Harper were saved.

The exact loss is not definitely known but will aggregate between ten and fifteen thousand, on which there is some insurance. Pine Grove does not have a fire department but the bucket brigade which was hastily formed, did noble service, and to them is due much credit for the confining of the fire to its limits.

The Star Course.

The receipts so far, including season tickets, have been $636.88. The total expenses of the course will be fully $705.00. The object for which the course was to be appropriated is one that should interest every Father and Mother who has a daughter at our Public Schools, and not them alone, but all who are interested in the cultivation of industrious and economical habits in our young girls. An Industrial school where girls are taught to sew, mend and darn neatly, is a much needed adjunct to our Public Schools and when the matter was mentioned to Supt. Lieb he gave it his hearty support and efficient aid in the sale of student's tickets. The income, however, has thus far not warranted the committee in bringing on a lady organizer of this work from Philadelphia and for this reason we appeal to a generous Public to aid us.

He Went Through the Window

On Wednesday morning a farmer from Bald Eagle Valley went into Dr Parrish's drug store and there was with him his dog—a large Newfoundland. The man went out unnoticed by the dog. Soon after George Bayard started for his dinner. The dog did not notice him until he was out and the door closed and then, supposing George was his master, he started after. The door was closed but this made no difference to the dog; he just set himself on his haunches and with one bound went through the large glass in the door and landed safely on the pavement, after which he trotted off down town.

A Big Fire.

The Millheim Journal of this week says: "On last Wednesday night, between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock Nathan Haugh's steam saw mill, north of this place, under the management of Benj. Beck, was burned to the ground. All the machinery except the boiler and cut-off were totally destroyed. The fire originated near the boiler, and had it not been for prompt help several thousand feet of lumber which was piled up near the building would have been consumed also. Mr. Haugh's loss was about $500, with no insurance. The mill will be rebuilt at once and it is the owner's intention to have it in running order in about three weeks."

—At Sehome, Washington, lives one of the leading women in the field of letters in America. Ella Higginson has a reputation as wide as the union for her poetry which has been published in the leading literary journals and magazines of the country. She wields a strong and caustic pen, and punctures folies and foibles with unsparing hand. West Shore, beginning March 8, will contain a department edited by her, devoted exclusively to the discussion of topics of especial interest to women. West Shore is the only illustrated weekly on the pacific coast and is published at Portland, Oregon.

At Bush Grove School.

Prof. D. M. Wolf, county superintendent of public schools, accompanied by Mr. W. R. Potter, of Elk county, visited he Bush Grove school on Monday, probably for the last time, as this is his last year as superintendent. The teacher and scholars were all glad to see their superintendent who, while there, made one of his characteristic and practica good talks. Miss Dora White is the teacher of this school and the many bright faces are evidence of her ability as an instructress.

JOHN DEWITT MILLER.

TAKES ONE HOUR AND A HALF IN WHICH TO TELL A BELLEFONTE AUDIENCE THE "USES OF UGLINESS."

The fifth entertainment in the series of the W. C. T. U. Star Course occurred in the Court House Friday night when John DeWitt Miller lectured on the "Uses of Ug'iness. There was not a very full house, we are sorry to say. Mr. Miller came in at 8 o'clock in company with Rev. W. A. Houck who introduced the lecturer.

Rev. Houck said that he had for a long time been somewhat perplexed as to how Mr. Miller was going to make such a lecture apply to a Bellefonte audience, but he had finally solved the puzzling question. Mr. Miller would talk on the "Uses of Ugliness" simply for the entertainment of Bellefonters and for the benefit of strangers who might be visiting in Bellefonte. The speaker was then introduced and opened by saying that, unlike Rev. Houck, who expected to live in Bellefonte a while longer, he expected to leave on the first train in the morning and so could freely say that he was very glad to see that persons blessed with the one commodity that characterized his lecture were so handsomely represented in the audience.

We might add that this was about the best part of his lecture. It was the only thing seemingly original in it. We do not wish to desparage the lecturer nor discourage the W. C. T. U., but really the entire talk or lecture of Mr. John DeWitt Miller was nothing more nor less than a multiplied conglomeration of unpronouncable, and mostly unmeaning, English, that was simply conjured up, written up, studied up, and finally dished up to a Bellefonte audience for their entertainment and edification. Goodness knows the speaker himself was bountifully blessed with the very thing he talked so much about.

But there were a few redeeming features about the lecture; the speaker probably did succeed in bringing out a few characteristics in the lives of some great men that were unknown before. He talked for one hour and a half and the few salient points in the lecture were sufficiently interesting to keep the most of those present awake.

Sparkling Spring Suckers.

John Beil caught a black sucker in Stone Creek, one day this week, with hook and line, that measured 21 inches in length and weighed 3¼ pounds. Those who saw it say it was a monster fish for these waters.

The greatest excitement this week prevailing in the vicinity of Boalsburg was occasioned by the capture, in Weaver's mill dam, of an extraordinarily large sucker. Mr. Moore, a young man of Boalsburg, was the successful angler. This overgrown specimen of the finny tribe was two feet and its circumference more than fifteen inches. It weighed nearly four pounds and fourteen ounces. Since this great catch became known all the fishermen in that place have been trying their skill, but no similar catch has been the result.

—We forgot to mention on Saturday and yesterday, as we should have done, that Capt. W. C. Kress arrived home from Florida on Friday night, considerably improved. He looks and feels well and said this morning that he can now walk without a cane. This is cheering news and is perhaps an indication that the captain's permanent recovery is not far distant. He was up street to-day and heartily greeted by many friends, of all parties, who are glad to see him at home again.—L. H. Democrat.

JENKS' DREAM.

Jenks had a queer dream the other night. He thought he saw a prize-fighters' ring, and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, drastic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. One a Dose.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are gently laxative, or strongly cathartic, according to size of dose. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.

is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE,

far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called

since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonsful.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

PERFECT BITTERS IS THE RESULT OF SCIENCE.

Millions of sufferers have gratefully and gladly endorsed, during the past quarter of a century the wonderful success of this

PHENOMENAL TONIC OF THE WORLD.

In order to meet every probable demand, two formulas of the same ingredients are now put up.

THE OLD STYLE IS STRONGER, SLIGHTLY BITTER, AND MORE CATHARTIC.

THE NEW STYLE, PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, AND EXPRESSLY ADAPTED TO DELICATE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

REMEMBER,

There is no disease of low vitality, debility of functions, or nervous prostration for which.

VINEGAR BITTERS IS NOT CURATIVE, and its singular power over the lower organisms renders it the implacable foe of.

THE DEADLY MICROBE AND OMNIPRESENT BACTERIA

in malarial diseases, cholera, consumption, internal diseases, &c., and so great is its power as a germicide that it is an

UNEQUALLED VERMIFUGE.

A book could be written of its virtues, and another of testimonials, but it is only necessary to remember its general action upon the liver, blood, brain and nerves, to realize its use in a majority of the ills that flesh is heir to, and that no family should ever be without a bottle of

OLD AND NEW STYLE VINEGAR BITTERS IN THE HOUSE.

—There is a lady in our town,
And she is wondrous wise.
She reads the ads in the DAILY NEWS
To see who advertise,
She says that this is the surest way,
That anybody can know;
To get the cheapest, newest and best,
And just whereabouts to go.

—Your card in the DAILY NEWS one year for $5.

—Have you filled your ice house yet? If not, why not?

THERE WAS NO TRUTH IN IT.

A Williamsport Paper Published the Following Sensational Story Regarding the Recent Sickness of Alfred Andrews

The following appeared in the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin of the issue of Saturday, March 8th:

"Word comes from Bellefonte that Alfred Andrews, the condemned murderer, is ill, and may die. He is suffering from an acute attack of cholera morbus, doubtless brought on by the luxuries sent to him by outside parties. Two doctors are in attendance and fears are entertained that he may die and thus rob the gallows of their property.

Andrews has given symptoms lately of being a perfect coward and it is openly declared in Bellefonte that he will never walk to the scaffold. The sheriff may have the unpleasant task of carrying him there.

There is a rumor that Andrews has taken poison but it cannot be confirmed. The information respecting the taking poison by Andrews comes from a direct source but, as we have stated it cannot be veried in any way to say that such has been the case. A gentleman in from Bellefonte last evening states that a common belief seems to prevail that the cholera morbus cause for illness is simply a disguise of the real trouble, the physicians endeavoring to overcome the effects of the dose of whatever poison Andrews may have taken. Of late Andrews has been very melancholly and much disturbed in mind and body. He has seen the result of the Hopkins trial and has found very little comfort in reflecting that each day lessens his lease on life Ascociations have had a great deal to do with his morbid condition and he has been constant in prayer. Fear growing upon his mind may doubt less have had the effect to partially unsettle a mental equilibrium not any too strong, and in this state it is not hard to understand why even so cowardly a nature as he possesses should refuse to hesitate in swallowing a poisonous drug. We are dealing somewhat in supposition.

"The frequent deputations and visits of friends and human curios to his cell, however, would confirm the belief that from some one of them he has received poison. This could easily have been the case, either by design or without his knowledge. If by design Andrews shows that there is still some nerve felt. If the poison came without his knowledge it must have been through some eatables brought in.

"There is no doubt but what he is a very sick man, and if he dies on Sheriff Cooke's hands an investigation into the causes by a post mortem examination may reveal a startling state of affairs. The sheriff should now see his way clear to closing the doors upon all visitors. He is now sending out passes to the exercises due the 9th inst."

Then in an editorial the paper comments as follows:

"Morbid curiosity should be discouraged. Too many sorrowful pictures in this world to gaze upon without seeking to add to the distress and trials coming in natural channels. It is to be hoped that the sheriff of Centre county will see the necessty of ruling out the receptions and levees in which murderer Andrews is the principle figure. With a confession scattered broadcast, bearing the lie on almost every page, and with a record as a brutal, unfeeling villain it is all wrong to allow sentimentality or sympathy to hedge round and about his way to the grave. The man should be passing his remaining hours in retirement, seeking by earnest and soulful repentance forgiveness for a high crime against God and man, This should be the situation but it is not and we but voice a strong public belief that condemns the uncanny practice of parading murderers and their awful deeds at every opportunity. The terrible Karthaus tragedy does not end with Andrews in his payment of the penalty on the gallows. The dead will live and the one who caused it should sustain all the condemnation due his work."

The gist of all the above is a plain and direct fabrication of the truth. In the first place, the recent sickness of Andrews had not the slightest symptoms of poisoning. It is true, he had a slight attack of cholera morbus, but the chief trouble was inflammation of the bladder. The intimation that Andrews had been given poison by anybody is the very height of absurdity, and when blame is attached to Sheriff Cooke for having anything to do with it, or for allowing such a crowd to dailyvisit the cell of the condemned man, it shows a lack of good judgment in the journal publishing such stuff, or else a predisposition to injure by false charges and malicious insinuations.

The Gazette and Bulletin says that a man from Bellefonte gave them the information on which they based their article and, although it was considerably supposition, yet there must have been some truth in it or else there would have been nothing to tell. Why we have been here every day and the first intimation we had of any insinuation or suspicion of poison, was when we read the above in the Williamsport paper. As to the crowds daily visiting Andrews' cell that is all bosh, as the public in general have not been admitted for weeks.

Now if the above had appeared in a democratic paper we would have taken no notice of it but appearing as it did we think it necessary that our Williamsport brother be set aright.

A Resolution.

The following paper was found on our desk Tuesday afternoon:

The Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. wishes to call the attention of those interested in the gymnasium that at the last meeting of the board the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that from Monday, March 10th, included, the lady members, instead of having Tuesday and Friday afternoons, shall hereafter have Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock,

Boys, under 14 years of age, every afternoon and evening from 5 to 7 o'clock. Young men every afternoon and evening up to 9.45 o'clock.

Friday's and Saturday's the gymnasium shall be open for boys and young men from 2 o'clock p. m. to 9.45, without interruption.

Not Very Complimentary, But Only Too True.

To the Daily News:

We were delighted with your comments on the lecture of John DeWitt Miller, in your issue of last Saturday. The lecture was not only stupid and poorly delivered, but the lecturer, himself, was uncooth, as well as uncombed and dirty.

For all this we do not blame the W. C. T. U., but we do blame the lecture bureau that will recommend such a fraud to any committee or society desiring to get up a course of lectures. When a man is sent out to give public entertainments his clothing ought to be clean, and his hair combed; that is, he should have sense enough to keep himself in a presentable condition.

For a week before the lecture there appeared squibs in the NEWS commending this man, and on the day of the lecture the town was flooded with circulars containing commendation of the ability, wit and humor of the lecturer, and his power as an orator. We do not blame the W. C. T. U. for sending these out, but the newspaper, or the man, or the audience that would commend such a deliverance as we had from John DeWitt Miller on last Friday night, for its wit, humor, ability or display of oratorical power, don't know what either of those articles are.

When the W. C. T. U. are imposed upon, as they were by the lecture bureau in Mr, Miller, they should refuse to pay the lecturer. They agree to pay so much, and the bureau recommends lecturers to be good; if they are not they should refuse to pay at once. Such a course would save the public from being imposed upon.

Any person, however stupid, could get up a lecture like the one Miller tried to deliver. It is not difficult to say a few words about anybody and everything in the course of an hour and a half and when done have said nothing of any consequence.

He is Liked in Altoona.

Sunday evening after the regular services were concluded, the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church, in Altoona, unanimously adopted the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, In the economy of the Methodist Episcopal church, the annual session of the Central Pennsylvania conference will convene on the 19th of March, and

Whereas, the labors of our beloved pastor for the past year are drawing to a close, we feel that to him and his estimable family we owe a debt of gratitude for his untiring efforts for and in behalf of our loved Zion; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the year of faithful service rendered by him our church has prospered in its varied interests, so that to-day marks an epoch in her history never before attained.

Resolved, that we recognize in Dr. Monroe a man of God, full of faith and good works, a self sacrificing, earnest, eloquent exponent of the truth, always ready and ever solicitous to minister to the temporal and spiritual wants of our suffering humanity.

Resolved that we, as members and friends of the First Methodist Episcopal church, realizing that the interests of the church and community demand his return, so that the work he has so successfully inaugurated may be consumated; further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, be transmitted to the presiding elder of this district, as conveying the unanimous sentiment of this people, respectfully but earnestly soliciting the reappointment of Doctor D. S. Monroe to this church.

—In a recent edition of the Wellsboro Agitator there appeared an attack, as currilous as it was unwarranted, on the Gazette of the same place for the charging of their regular price for printing the advertisements of the proposed Amendments, as sent out by Secretary of State Stone, during the year 1889. The Gazette seems to take the matter somewhat to heart but it is foolish to do so. Why don't you know, brother Gazettr, that there are some editors who will do a job for nothing in order to get an opportunity to parade their honesty (?) and go for their neighbors for taking just what they have a right to. We have them in this part of the State, too.

—J Linn Smith, who was buried at Howard on Tuesday met his death in the following manner: He was conducting a train through to Pittsburg. A stop had been made at Lockport and Smith was back in the caboose when his train was run into by another. He was thrown violently against something striking on his left temple causing death. The scar on his head was the only mark visible on his person.

A VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

John Brachbill Dies at His Residence on Spring Street at 12 O'clock on Monday Night.

"In the midst of life we are in death." How fully the people of Bellefonte realize this fact. No announcement could have caused more general and heartfelt sorrow than that which fell on the people of Bellefonte Tuesday when it was passed from person to person that "John Brachbill was dead," Many said it could not be and more thought it utterly impossible as only on Monday evening Mr. Brachbill had been to the post office, received his mail and had conversed pleasantly with numerous friends and acquaintances, but all doubts were dispelled by a visit to his residence on Spring street. On the door hung the black draping that at all times signifies death, and within an upper chamber, as peaceful-looking and natural as in life, lay the form known so well, cold in death.

The direct cause of Mr. Brachbill's death was hemorrhage of the brain. A few years ago Mr. Brachbill had a stroke of paralysis from the effects of which he had never fully recovered. Later he had an attack of hemorrhage of the brain and recovered from it. The attack of Monday night came without any warning and was so sudden and fatal that death was almost instantaneous. It was just about twelve o'clock when Mr. Brachbill pulled the bed clothes up over him as if he was cold. Mrs. Brachbill spoke to him, asking him if he was chilly but received no reply, only a slight gurgling sound. In a few minutes she again spoke and receiving no reply, became alarmed and hastened to awake the household to see what was wrong, but it was then all over for Mr. Brachbill lay a corpse. Death came without a struggle, and the cold and then lifeless form looked as calm and peaceful as an infant. The only noticeable difference from that of the man asleep was a slight pallor in the face. The neighbors were hastily summoned and Dr. Hayes sent for. The latter, on his arrival, pronounced life entirely extinct, and said that death had been caused as above mentioned.

Mr. Brachbill was born in Juniata county on the 7th day of April, 1828, and had he lived to the 7th of next month would have been 72 years old. He came to Bellefonte in 1841 and at once engaged in the furniture business. In 1846 he built his first establishment on the same site where the present large building stands in which W R Brachbill now carries on the furniture business. Mr. Brachbill continued actively in the business until his two sons, J C and W R, grew up when they relieved him of the care and labor and the firm was then J Brachbill's Sons, and later J C retiring left it in the name of W R Brachbill and as such it now is.

Mr. Brachbill was married to Miss Louisa Runkle. They had eight children, six of whom are dead, only the two boys, Will and Cal, surviving. Mr. John E Fryeberger, of Philipsburg, is his grandchild. Mrs. Brachbill still lives and the sudden death of her husband is a terrible blow to her. It is no less a blow to the boys.

The funeral will occur from his late residence on Spring street this Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

Electric Bells.

Have you seen the electric bells that Mr. Ed. Rankin is now selling? If you have not you had better go and see them. They are the latest and newest, and most handsome out. No person after once seeing them would be bothered with the old style rattle-bang door bell which is all the time getting out of order, and even when in order, squeaks and rattles like a bag full of dry bones.

The electric battery in connection with the bell is the latest and most improved out, only patented in January, and is what is termed a dry battery. They will last for years and never get out of order. Mr. Rankin can supply door and table bells, annunciators, and all kind of electrical supplies at a cost so little as to seem almost incredible. Give him a call at the telegraph office in the Bush Arcade and he will show you the bells and give you prices.

Is it Contrariness or Democratic Principle, or Both.

License court was held on last Tuesday and up to this date there has been no announcement of the licenses granted made, and the prospect is that there will not be for a week yet.

Rumor has it, and rumor sometimes saith truly, that the Judges disagree and cannot come to a united opinion as to who shall have and who shall not have. Judge Rhoads, rumor saith, has nothing to say. The disagreement, then, must be between Judge's Furst and Riley. According to report, Judge Riley wants license granted to a certain house that heretofore has been refused and which Judge Furst will not now grant. Judge Riley is reported as saying that if Judge Furst would not grant that license he [Riley] would not give his consent to the granting of any. And so the affair now stands.

A Hint to Constables.

Now that the constable is elected for a term of three years; he will be expected to enforce the law strictly to the letter without fear or favor. He is the guardian of the peace and public morals, and a full discharge of his official obligations is not subject to the whims and favors of wrong-doers to retain his position, at least for the time being, and if he performs his duties faithfully and conscientiously, a life term is not among the impossibilities.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Austin McClain of Ridgway, spent Sunday in Bellefonte.

Mr. John T Johnston spent Sunday at his home in this place.

Howard Yeager made a flying trip to State College Monday morning.

General Hastings was looking up acquaintances in Lock Haven on Tuesday.

Mr. Jacob Snyder of Altoona, is spending a few days with his friends in this place.

Mr. Chas. McCafferty departed on Monday for Bradford, to visit his son James of that place.

Mr. Philip Bradley, of Hawk Run, was in Bellefonte Wednesday and did not forget to call in and see us.

Mrs. James McClain departed on Monday for Philipsburg where she will spend a few days visiting friends.

W. Fred Reynolds and W. L. Daggett, both of this place, were registered at the Park hotel, in Williamsport, on Saturday.

General D H Hastings, after spending two days with his family and friends in Bellefonte departed Monday for Harrisburg.

Miss Maggie Goss, daughter of Treasurer Goss, returned home on Friday last from Mifflinburg where she spent a very pleasant week visiting friends.

Mr. James Foster, chemist, of State College, will go to the West Penn steel works at Pittsburg, where he has accepted the position of chemist for the firm.

Mr. C U Hoffer, now of Philipsburg but formerly a resident of Bellefonte, was visible on the streets of our borough Saturday. He probably came to the county seat to spend Sunday with friends.

On the register at the Lafayette hotel, Philadelphia, on Monday, were written the following autographs: A D Furst, Thos. M Shoemaker, Mrs. John P Harris, Bellefonte, and with the latter, Mrs. A B Weaver, of Clearfield, Pa.

Houserville Howlings.

Sickness still prevails in our midst.

We notice that our old friend, Dr. Teeo. S Christ, is again practicing medicine.

On Saturday last our fair equstrienne, Miss Mary Johnstonbaugh, while going to the post office riding horse back, was accidentally thrown from her horse and slightly injured.

At present writing members of the family of Mr. Emanuel Houser are seriously ill with influenza. Mr. Houser, himself, has not been well for several days.

Mr. George Cronomiller bought a very valuable horse one day last week. No doubt it is a goer, George; if it isn't it deceives its looks very much.

We noticed Mr. Geo. Hollobaugh, of Morris' lime kilns, in our town on last Staturday.

'Tis said that some of our young men have no girls at all, while others have nearly a dozen. How is it Dave? show us the trick.

Dr. Luther Houser, of Pennsylvania Furnace, visited his parents in this place on Sunday last. He also administered medicine to the sick while here.

Please don't forget that there will be preaching in the U. B. church, in this place, next Sunday evening by Rev. Jackson. SHORTY.

Plunder.

Never Before Offered.

For one month we will give, to new subscribers only, a regular edition of Webster's Dictionary, three month's subscription to the New York Weekly and three month's subscription to the DAILY NEWS, for the small sum of five dollars ($5.) This is an unparalelled offer and will positively not be prolonged after the first of April. The Dictionary offered is the same kind for which you would have to pay, at any book store, the regular selling price of $12. Address all orders to this paper. m8-3w.

They Can't Come.

The Cornell Glee Club and the Banjo Club of the Cornell University cannot be in Bellefonte on the 22nd of this month, as was expected, to give an entertainment unedr the auspices and for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. This announcement will be a great disappointment to the music-loving people of Bellefonte, as to hear the above celebrated musicians would have been a rare treat.

TWO FATAL ACCIDENTS.

J. Linn Smith Killed on the Railroad, and a Son of Wm. Lucas Fell From a Wagon and was Killed.

On Sunday Mr. A. V. Smith, of this place, recived a telegram from Pittsburg, conveying the sad intelligence that his brother J. Linn Smith had been killed on the railroad at Lockport, near Pittsburg, that the body had been prepared for burial and was waiting the instructions of his friends as to the disposition to be made of it. Mr. Smith telegraphed back to send the body to Howard, and received in reply that the remains would be taken to Howard on the 9.32 train on Wednesday. This is the only information thus far to be obtained about how the young man met his sad fate, but it is conjectured that he must have slipped and fallen, the cars being more or less coated with ice.

J. Linn was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, of Howard township. He has been a railroader for many years but never met with any very serious accidents previous to this. He worked on the Bald Eagle branch about five years; from there he went to Renovo where he worked a while. Last spring he quit the road and started a notion store at Howard. He was getting along very well but the old love for railroading sprang up again and he succeeded in obtaining a position on the Western division of the Pennsylvania, running from Altoona to Pittsburg. There he has worked ever since until the fatal accident of Sunday morning. His death will be a hard stroke on his aged parents, both of whom are past 70 years of age. Linn was their youngest child, only about twenty-seven or eight years of age and was unmarried.

A BOY KILLED.

On Saturday the seven year old son of William Lucas, who was living with a farmer about five miles out of Bellefonte was riding along on a heavy wagon. The wagon probably passed over some obstruction in the road, gave a lurch to one side and the boy was thrown out, alighting on his shoulders. Before the wagon could be stopped the one wheel had almost passed over his body.

The little fellow was tenderly picked up and carried to the farmer's home, the doctor summoned and everything possible done for the injured one, but without avail. His injuries must have been internally and more serious than the eye could determine, as the boy died yesterday morning. This is a double affliction on Mr. Lucas, his wife having died only a few weeks ago.

A Fall of Stone in a Quarry That Might Have Been Terrible in Its Results.

On Sunday there was a fall of stone and clay in the Morris limestone quarries along the pike that, had it happened on any other day but Sunday, would have been very disastrous and probably resulted in a terrible loss of life, and the quarrymen have every reason to thank that unseen guardian angel who so carefully watched over them in this instance.

The incidents in connection with the accident which resulted in the death of Thos. Mayes and Frank Gallagher, not a very long time ago, is still of two recent happening to be entirely forgotten, It will be remembered that at the time the DAILY NEWS called attention to the fact of the danger to which the working there were constantly exposed, but nothing was done nor any precaution or measures of safety adopted. This is another terrible and, we hope, sufficiently emphatic warning, and that it will now be heeded and every means possible adopted for the safety of the lives of those who work in the quarry.

The fall of earth and rock on Sunday was tremendous; the entire overhanging cliff—about two thousand tons of rock and clay—falling without any warning and with a suddenness that would not have admitted of anyone who might have been working there escaping. The overhanging rock was full two hundred feet in height and must have projected twenty feet over the perpendicular.

Paste This in Your Hat.

Every man should paste this in his hat or put it whare he will fall over it six times each day: Drink nothing without seeing it. Sign nothing without reading, and make sure that it means nothing more than it says. Don't go to law unless you are forced to and have something to loose. In any business never wade in where you cannot see the bottom. Put no dependence on the label of a bag, and count money before you receipt for it. See in the sack before you buy what is in it, for he who reads in the dark asks to be cheated.

—The dear little brooks are alive with ice,
The ponds are all covered with freeze;
Old Winter is here and he's ever so nice;
And we tender him thanks on our knees.
No more are we vexed and no longer perplexed;
The victory is ours; we have won
For one thing is settled and this is the text;
We pay no eight dolars the ton,
Or words to that effect.

—Treasurer Cyrus Goss has bought himself a lot on Linn street, just above Mr. Cruse's residence. We presume he will now proceed to erect thereon a handsome residence, and conclude to abide permanently in Bellefonte.

MARRIED.

HOCKMAN—COBLE—In Bellefonte, March 7 1890, by John B. Linn, Esq., William E Hockman of DuBois, Clearfield county, and Miss Nancy J Coble, of Houserville, Centre county, Pa.
